

Though there are expenses involved in annexation, the provisions of this bill should not significantly affect local government expenditures from current statute. Costs will depend on the size of the territory annexed, location and the type of election used to address the issue.

Office of the Legislative Fiscal Analyst