

State Impact

This bill requires health care providers to report health conditions related to bioterrorism. It also gives the Department of Health the authority to receive such reports and investigate, when necessary. The department can handle this workload within existing budgets.

Individual and Business Impact

Health care providers would be required to submit reports to the Department of Health under specific conditions. This reporting could entail some cost to the providers, but the amount would vary from provider to provider and would also depend on the circumstances under which the report would be necessary.
