2012 GENERAL SESSION

STATE GOVERNMENT (UCA 36-12-13(2)(b))

Enactment of this bill likely will not materially impact the state budget.

LOCAL GOVERNMENTS (UCA 36-12-13(2)(c))

To be an approved training provider to issue food handler training certificates, Utah's local health departments collectively would need to pay a one-time accreditation fee of about $14,000 and an annual fee of $6,000. Local health departments would also incur the costs of complying with the accreditation standards. Local health departments could also charge up to $10 per application for issuing food permits.

DIRECT EXPENDITURES BY UTAH RESIDENTS AND BUSINESSES (UCA 36-12-13(2)(d))

Businesses wanting to issue food handler training certificates would need to pay a one-time accreditation fee of about $14,000 and an annual fee of $2,500 to $6,000 based on food handler training certificates revenues. Business would also incur the costs of complying with the accreditation standards. Individuals seeking a food handler permit may pay up to $10 more.
