Highlighted Provisions:

This resolution:

- ► affirms that the authority to determine energy policies affecting state residents is among the powers reserved to states under the Tenth Amendment;
- ► explains the significance of the United States Supreme Court's "Loper Bright" decision in preserving federalism;
- ► asserts Utah's right to play a primary role in determining energy policies within its borders;
- ► urges the federal government to limit its role in energy regulation to matters of interstate commerce and national security;
- ► requests meaningful consultation between federal agencies and states when developing energy-related policies; and
- ► calls for formal mechanisms for state input in federal energy policy decisions.

Money Appropriated in this Bill:

None

Other Special Clauses:

None

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the state of Utah, the Governor concurring therein:

WHEREAS, the Tenth Amendment to the United States Constitution reserves powers not delegated to the federal government to the states or to the people;

WHEREAS, as the United States Supreme Court once explained, the Tenth Amendment serves to "allay fears that the new national government might seek to exercise powers not granted, and that the states might not be able to exercise fully their reserved powers";

WHEREAS, these reserved powers encompass the authority to regulate matters directly affecting the well-being, health, and safety of state residents;

WHEREAS, the Tenth Amendment is the cornerstone of constitutional federalism and acts as a bulwark against federal intrusion on state authority and individual liberty;

WHEREAS, the federal government is a government of limited jurisdiction and powers;

WHEREAS, energy policy fundamentally impacts the economic prosperity, public health, environmental quality, and overall quality of life within each state;

WHEREAS, the regulation of energy production, distribution, and use plays a significant role in shaping land use, local economic development, and the protection of natural resources;

WHEREAS, states have direct knowledge of the local geography, resources, economic needs, and environmental concerns;

WHEREAS, this local expertise enables the states to make better informed decisions regarding the regulation of energy production, distribution, and consumption within their jurisdiction;

WHEREAS, federal energy policies and regulations have increasingly encroached upon these traditional areas of state authority;

WHEREAS, the United States Supreme Court recently reinforced the principle of federalism in Loper Bright Enterprises v. Raimondo (the "Loper Bright" decision);

WHEREAS, the Loper Bright decision eliminated the Chevron doctrine, a longstanding precedent that required courts to defer to a federal agency's interpretation of law and resulted in arbitrary and unchecked federal rulemaking;

WHEREAS, the federalism canon, as acknowledged by the United States Supreme Court in the Loper Bright decision, requires courts to presume that federal law does not preempt state law because of the sovereignty states enjoy under the United States Constitution;

WHEREAS, effective energy policy requires balancing national interests with state and local concerns; and

WHEREAS, a cooperative approach between federal and state governments can lead to more effective and tailored energy policies:

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Legislature of the state of Utah, the Governor concurring therein:

(1) reaffirms Utah's sovereignty under the Tenth Amendment to the United States Constitution and pledges to safeguard the state's sovereignty from unconstitutional federal overreach;

(2) affirms that the authority to determine energy policies substantially affecting the well-being of state residents is among the powers reserved to the states under the Tenth Amendment;

(3) recognizes the significance of the Loper Bright decision in preventing unjustified intrusions into state sovereignty and urges state agencies to review the federal regulations impacting the state to ensure those regulations are lawfully authorized;

(4) asserts Utah's right to play a primary role in determining energy policies within its borders, including decisions regarding energy resources and infrastructure;

(5) calls upon the federal government to recognize states' constitutional authority and superior positioning to make location-specific decisions about energy projects and to defer to states on such matters;

(6) urges the federal government to limit its role in energy regulation to matters of interstate commerce and national security, while respecting states' authority to govern intrastate energy matters;

(7) requests that federal agencies engage in meaningful, early, and ongoing consultation with states when developing energy-related policies or regulations that may affect state interests;

(8) encourages Congress to pass legislation requiring federal agencies to demonstrate that they have adequately consulted with and considered input from affected states before implementing any energy-related regulations;

(9) calls for the creation of formal mechanisms for state input in federal energy policy decisions; and

(10) calls on the federal government to reign in its regulatory apparatus and uphold the balance of powers where the Constitution of the United States established it.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Legislature directs that copies of this resolution be sent to the President of the United States, the Majority and Minority Leaders of the United States Senate, the Speaker and Minority Leader of the United States House of Representatives, and the members of Utah's congressional delegation.

Utah Rules of Civil Procedure Affected:

AMENDS:

Rule 26, Utah Rules of Civil Procedure

Utah Rules of Evidence Affected:

AMENDS:

Rule 510, Utah Rules of Evidence

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the state of Utah, two-thirds of all members elected to each of the two houses voting in favor thereof:
As provided in Utah Constitution Article VIII, Section 4, the Legislature may amend rules of procedure and evidence adopted by the Utah Supreme Court upon a two-thirds vote of all members of both houses of the Legislature:

Section 1. Rule 26, Utah Rules of Civil Procedure is amended to read:

Rule 26. General provisions governing disclosure of discovery.

(a) Disclosure. This rule applies unless changed or supplemented by a rule governing disclosure and discovery in a practice area.

(1) Initial disclosures. Except in cases exempt under paragraph (a)(3), a party must, without waiting for a discovery request, serve on the other parties:

(A) the name and, if known, the address and telephone number of:

(i) each individual likely to have discoverable information supporting its claims or defenses, unless solely for impeachment, identifying the subjects of the information; and

(ii) each fact witness the party may call in its case-in-chief and, except for an adverse party, a summary of the expected testimony;

(B) a copy of all documents, data compilations, electronically stored information, and tangible things in the possession or control of the party that the party may offer in its case-in-chief, except charts, summaries, and demonstrative exhibits that have not yet been prepared and must be disclosed in accordance with paragraph (a)(5);

(C) a computation of any damages claimed and a copy of all discoverable documents or evidentiary material on which such computation is based, including materials about the nature and extent of injuries suffered;

(D) a copy of any agreement under which any person may be liable to satisfy part or all of a judgment or to indemnify or reimburse for payments made to satisfy the judgment; and

(E) a copy of all documents to which a party refers in its pleadings.

(2) Timing of initial disclosures. The disclosures required by paragraph (a)(1) must be served on the other parties:

(A) by a plaintiff within 14 days after the filing of the first answer to that plaintiff's complaint; and

(B) by a defendant within 42 days after the filing of that defendant's first answer to the complaint.

(3) Exemptions.

(A) Unless otherwise ordered by the court or agreed to by the parties, the requirements of paragraph (a)(1) do not apply to actions:

(i) for judicial review of adjudicative proceedings or rule making proceedings of an administrative agency;

(ii) governed by Rule 65B or Rule 65C;

(iii) to enforce an arbitration award; or

(iv) for water rights general adjudication under Utah Code Title 73, Chapter 4, Determination of Water Rights.

(B) In an exempt action, the matters subject to disclosure under paragraph (a)(1) are subject to discovery under paragraph (b).

(4) Expert testimony.

(A) Disclosure of retained expert testimony. A party must, without waiting for a discovery request, serve on the other parties the following information regarding any person who may be used at trial to present evidence under Rule 702 of the Utah Rules of Evidence and who is retained or specially employed to provide expert testimony in the case or whose duties as an employee of the party regularly involve giving expert testimony: (i) the expert's name and qualifications, including a list of all publications authored within the preceding 10 years, and a list of any other cases in which the expert has testified as an expert at trial or by deposition within the preceding four years, (ii) a brief summary of the opinions to which the witness is expected to testify, (iii) the facts, data, and other information specific to the case that will be relied upon by the witness in forming those opinions, and (iv) the compensation to be paid for the witness's study and testimony.

(B) Limits on expert discovery. Further discovery may be obtained from an expert witness either by deposition or by written report. A deposition must not exceed four hours and the party taking the deposition must pay the expert's reasonable hourly fees for attendance at the deposition. A report must be signed by the expert and must contain a complete statement of all opinions the expert will offer at trial and the basis and reasons for them. Such an expert may not testify in a party's case-in-chief concerning any matter not fairly disclosed in the report. The party offering the expert must pay the costs for the report.

(C) Timing for expert discovery.

(i) The party who bears the burden of proof on the issue for which expert testimony is offered must serve on the other parties the information required by paragraph (a)(4)(A) within 14 days after the close of fact discovery. Within 14 days thereafter, the party opposing the expert may serve notice electing either a deposition of the expert pursuant to paragraph (a)(4)(B) and Rule 30, or a written report pursuant to paragraph (a)(4)(B). The deposition must occur, or the report must be served on the other parties, within 42 days after the election is served on the other parties. If no election is served on the other parties, then no further discovery of the expert must be permitted.

(ii) The party who does not bear the burden of proof on the issue for which expert testimony is offered must serve on the other parties the information required by paragraph (a)(4)(A) within 14 days after the later of (A) the date on which the disclosure under paragraph (a)(4)(C)(i) is due, or (B) service of the written report or the taking of the expert's deposition pursuant to paragraph (a)(4)(C)(i). Within 14 days thereafter, the party opposing the expert may serve notice electing either a deposition of the expert pursuant to paragraph (a)(4)(B) and Rule 30, or a written report pursuant to paragraph (a)(4)(B). The deposition must occur, or the report must be served on the other parties, within 42 days after the election is served on the other parties. If no election is served on the other parties, then no further discovery of the expert must be permitted.

(iii) If the party who bears the burden of proof on an issue wants to designate rebuttal expert witnesses, it must serve on the other parties the information required by paragraph (a)(4)(A) within 14 days after the later of (A) the date on which the election under paragraph (a)(4)(C)(ii) is due or (B) service of the written report or the taking of the expert's deposition pursuant to paragraph (a)(4)(C)(ii). Within 14 days thereafter, the party opposing the expert may serve notice electing either a deposition of the expert pursuant to paragraph (a)(4)(B) and Rule 30, or a written report pursuant to paragraph (a)(4)(B). The deposition must occur, or the report must be served on the other parties, within 42 days after the election is served on the other parties. If no election is served on the other parties, then no further discovery of the expert must be permitted. The court may preclude an expert disclosed only as a rebuttal expert from testifying in the case in chief.

(D) Multiparty actions. In multiparty actions, all parties opposing the expert must agree on either a report or a deposition. If all parties opposing the expert do not agree, then further discovery of the expert may be obtained only by deposition pursuant to paragraph (a)(4)(B) and Rule 30.

(E) Summary of non-retained expert testimony. If a party intends to present evidence at trial under Rule 702 of the Utah Rules of Evidence from any person other than an expert witness who is retained or specially employed to provide testimony in the case or a person whose duties as an employee of the party regularly involve giving expert testimony, that party must serve on the other parties a written summary of the facts and opinions to which the witness is expected to testify in accordance with the deadlines set forth in paragraph (a)(4)(C). Such a witness cannot be required to provide a report pursuant to paragraph (a)(4)(B). A deposition of such a witness may not exceed four hours and, unless manifest injustice would result, the party taking the deposition must pay the expert's reasonable hourly fees for attendance at the deposition.

(5) Pretrial disclosures.

(A) A party must, without waiting for a discovery request, serve on the other parties:

(i) the name and, if not previously provided, the address and telephone number of each witness, unless solely for impeachment, separately identifying witnesses the party will call and witnesses the party may call;

(ii) the name of witnesses whose testimony is expected to be presented by transcript of a deposition;

(iii) designations of the proposed deposition testimony; and

(iv) a copy of each exhibit, including charts, summaries, and demonstrative exhibits, unless solely for impeachment, separately identifying those which the party will offer and those which the party may offer.

(B) Disclosure required by paragraph (a)(5)(A) must be served on the other parties at least 28 days before trial. Disclosures required by paragraph (a)(5)(A)(i) and (a)(5)(A)(ii) must also be filed on the date that they are served. At least 14 days before trial, a party must serve any counter designations of deposition testimony and any objections and grounds for the objections to the use of any deposition, witness, or exhibit if the grounds for the objection are apparent before trial. Other than objections under Rules 402 and 403 of the Utah Rules of Evidence, other objections not listed are waived unless excused by the court for good cause.

(6) Form of disclosure and discovery production. Rule 34 governs the form in which all documents, data compilations, electronically stored information, tangible things, and evidentiary material should be produced under this Rule.

(b) Discovery scope.

(1) In general. Parties may discover any matter, not privileged, which is relevant to the claim or defense of any party if the discovery satisfies the standards of proportionality set forth below.

(2) Privileged matters.

(A) Privileged matters that are not discoverable or admissible in any proceeding of any kind or character include:

(i) all information in any form provided during and created specifically as part of a request for an investigation, the investigation, findings, or conclusions of peer review, care review, or quality assurance processes of any organization of health care providers as defined in Utah Code Title 78B, Chapter 3, Part 4, Utah Health Care Malpractice Act, for the purpose of evaluating care provided to reduce morbidity and mortality or to improve the quality of medical care, or for the purpose of peer review of the ethics, competence, or professional conduct of any health care provider; and

(ii) except as provided in paragraph (b)(2)(C), (D), or (E), all communications, materials, and information in any form specifically created for or during a medical candor process under Utah Code Title 78B, Chapter 3, Part 4a, Utah Medical Candor Act, including any findings or conclusions from the investigation and any offer of compensation.

(B) Disclosure or use in a medical candor process of any communication, material, or information in any form that contains any information described in paragraph (b)(2)(A)(i) does not waive any privilege or protection against admissibility or discovery of the information under paragraph (b)(2)(A)(i).

(C) Any communication, material, or information in any form that is made or provided in the ordinary course of business, including a medical record or a business record, that is otherwise discoverable or admissible and is not created for or during a medical candor process is not privileged by the use or disclosure of the communication, material, or information during a medical candor process.

(D) (i) Any information that is required to be documented in a patient's medical record under state or federal law is not privileged by the use or disclosure of the information during a medical candor process.

(ii) Information described in paragraph (b)(2)(D)(i) does not include an individual's mental impressions, conclusions, or opinions that are formed outside the course and scope of the patient's care and treatment and are used or disclosed in a medical candor process.

(E) (i) Any communication, material, or information in any form that is provided to an affected party before the affected party's written agreement to participate in a medical candor process is not privileged by the use or disclosure of the communication, material, or information during a medical candor process.

(ii) Any communication, material, or information described in paragraph (b)(2)(E)(i) does not include a written notice described in Utah Code section 78B-3-452.

(F) The terms defined in Utah Code section 78B-3-450 apply to paragraphs (b)(2)(A)(ii), (B), (C), (D), and (E).

(G) Nothing in this paragraph (b)(2) shall prevent a party from raising any other privileges provided by law or rule as to the admissibility or discovery of any communication, information, or material described in paragraph (b)(2)(A), (B), (C), (D), or (E).

(3) Proportionality. Discovery and discovery requests are proportional if:

(A) the discovery is reasonable, considering the needs of the case, the amount in controversy, the complexity of the case, the parties' resources, the importance of the issues, and the importance of the discovery in resolving the issues;

(B) the likely benefits of the proposed discovery outweigh the burden or expense;

(C) the discovery is consistent with the overall case management and will further the just, speedy, and inexpensive determination of the case;

(D) the discovery is not unreasonably cumulative or duplicative;

(E) the information cannot be obtained from another source that is more convenient, less burdensome, or less expensive; and

(F) the party seeking discovery has not had sufficient opportunity to obtain the information by discovery or otherwise, taking into account the parties' relative access to the information.

(4) Burden. The party seeking discovery always has the burden of showing proportionality and relevance. To ensure proportionality, the court may enter orders under Rule 37.

(5) Electronically stored information. A party claiming that electronically stored information is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or cost must describe the source of the electronically stored information, the nature and extent of the burden, the nature of the information not provided, and any other information that will enable other parties to evaluate the claim.

(6) Trial preparation materials. A party may obtain otherwise discoverable documents and tangible things prepared in anticipation of litigation or for trial by or for another party or by or for that other party's representative (including the party's attorney, consultant, surety, indemnitor, insurer, or agent) only upon a showing that the party seeking discovery has substantial need of the materials and that the party is unable without undue hardship to obtain substantially equivalent materials by other means. In ordering discovery of such materials, the court must protect against disclosure of the mental impressions, conclusions, opinions, or legal theories of an attorney or other representative of a party.

(7) Statement previously made about the action. A party may obtain without the showing required in paragraph (b)(5) a statement concerning the action or its subject matter previously made by that party. Upon request, a person not a party may obtain without the required showing a statement about the action or its subject matter previously made by that person. If the request is refused, the person may move for a court order under Rule 37. A statement previously made is: (A) a written statement signed or approved by the person making it[;]; or (B) a stenographic, mechanical, electronic, or other recording, or a transcription thereof, which is a substantially verbatim recital of an oral statement by the person making it and contemporaneously recorded.

(8) Trial preparation; experts.

(A) Trial-preparation protection for draft reports or disclosures. Paragraph (b)(6) protects drafts of any report or disclosure required under paragraph (a)(4), regardless of the form in which the draft is recorded.

(B) Trial-preparation protection for communications between a party's attorney and expert witnesses. Paragraph (b)(6) protects communications between the party's attorney and any witness required to provide disclosures under paragraph (a)(4), regardless of the form of the communications, except to the extent that the communications:

(i) relate to compensation for the expert's study or testimony;

(ii) identify facts or data that the party's attorney provided and that the expert considered in forming the opinions to be expressed; or

(iii) identify assumptions that the party's attorney provided and that the expert relied on in forming the opinions to be expressed.

(C) Expert employed only for trial preparation. Ordinarily, a party may not, by interrogatories or otherwise, discover facts known or opinions held by an expert who has been retained or specially employed by another party in anticipation of litigation or to prepare for trial and who is not expected to be called as a witness at trial. A party may do so only:

(i) as provided in Rule 35(b); or

(ii) on showing exceptional circumstances under which it is impracticable for the party to obtain facts or opinions on the same subject by other means.

(9) Claims of privilege or protection of trial preparation materials.

(A) Information withheld. If a party withholds discoverable information by claiming that it is privileged or prepared in anticipation of litigation or for trial, the party must make the claim expressly and must describe the nature of the documents, communications, or things not produced in a manner that, without revealing the information itself, will enable other parties to evaluate the claim.

(B) Information produced. If a party produces information that the party claims is privileged or prepared in anticipation of litigation or for trial, the producing party may notify any receiving party of the claim and the basis for it. After being notified, a receiving party must promptly return, sequester, or destroy the specified information and any copies it has and may not use or disclose the information until the claim is resolved. A receiving party may promptly present the information to the court under seal for a determination of the claim. If the receiving party disclosed the information before being notified, it must take reasonable steps to retrieve it. The producing party must preserve the information until the claim is resolved.

(C) Information disclosed in a legislative audit. If a party is an entity that is subject to an audit by the legislative auditor general under Utah Constitution, Article VI, Section 33, and information that is privileged or prepared in anticipation of litigation or for trial is disclosed to the legislative auditor general or an arbitrator as described in Utah Code section 36-12-15, the disclosure to the legislative auditor general or the arbitrator does not make the information discoverable or prevent the party from claiming that the information is privileged and prepared in anticipation of litigation or for trial.

(c) Methods, sequence, and timing of discovery; tiers; limits on standard discovery; extraordinary discovery.

(1) Methods of discovery. Parties may obtain discovery by one or more of the following methods: depositions upon oral examination or written questions; written interrogatories; production of documents or things or permission to enter upon land or other property, for inspection and other purposes; physical and mental examinations; requests for admission; and subpoenas other than for a court hearing or trial.

(2) Sequence and timing of discovery. Methods of discovery may be used in any sequence, and the fact that a party is conducting discovery must not delay any other party's discovery. Except for cases exempt under paragraph (a)(3), a party may not seek discovery from any source before that party's initial disclosure obligations are satisfied.

(3) Definition of tiers for standard discovery. Actions claiming $50,000 or less in damages are permitted standard discovery as described for Tier 1. Actions claiming more than $50,000 and less than $300,000 in damages are permitted standard discovery as described for Tier 2. Actions claiming $300,000 or more in damages are permitted standard discovery as described for Tier 3. Absent an accompanying damage claim for more than $300,000, actions claiming non-monetary relief are permitted standard discovery as described for Tier 2. Domestic relations actions are permitted standard discovery as described for Tier 4.

(4) Definition of damages. For purposes of determining standard discovery, the amount of damages includes the total of all monetary damages sought (without duplication for alternative theories) by all parties in all claims for relief in the original pleadings.

(5) Limits on standard fact discovery. Standard fact discovery per side (plaintiffs collectively, defendants collectively, and third-party defendants collectively) in each tier is as follows. The days to complete standard fact discovery are calculated from the date the first defendant's first disclosure is due and do not include expert discovery under paragraphs (a)(4)(C) and (D).

Tier	Amount of Damages	Total Fact Deposition Hours	Rule 33 Interrogatories including all discrete subparts	Rule 34 Requests for Production	Rule 36 Requests for Admission	Days to Complete Standard Fact Discovery
1	$50,000 or less	3	0	5	5	120
2	More than $50,000 and less than $300,000 or non-monetary relief	15	10	10	10	180

3	$300,000 or more	30	20	20	20	210
4	Domestic relations actions	4	10	10	10	90

(6) Extraordinary discovery. To obtain discovery beyond the limits established in paragraph (c)(5), a party must:

(A) before the close of standard discovery and after reaching the limits of standard discovery imposed by these rules, file a stipulated statement that extraordinary discovery is necessary and proportional under paragraph (b)(2) and, for each party represented by an attorney, a statement that the attorney consulted with the client about the request for extraordinary discovery;

(B) before the close of standard discovery and after reaching the limits of standard discovery imposed by these rules, file a request for extraordinary discovery under Rule 37(a); or

(C) obtain an expanded discovery schedule under Rule 100A.

(d) Requirements for disclosure or response; disclosure or response by an organization; failure to disclose; initial and supplemental disclosures and responses.

(1) A party must make disclosures and responses to discovery based on the information then known or reasonably available to the party.

(2) If the party providing disclosure or responding to discovery is a corporation, partnership, association, or governmental agency, the party must act through one or more officers, directors, managing agents, or other persons, who must make disclosures and responses to discovery based on the information then known or reasonably available to the party.

(3) A party is not excused from making disclosures or responses because the party has not completed investigating the case, the party challenges the sufficiency of another party's disclosures or responses, or another party has not made disclosures or responses.

(4) If a party fails to disclose or to supplement timely a disclosure or response to discovery, that party may not use the undisclosed witness, document, or material at any hearing or trial unless the failure is harmless or the party shows good cause for the failure.

(5) If a party learns that a disclosure or response is incomplete or incorrect in some important way, the party must timely serve on the other parties the additional or correct information if it has not been made known to the other parties. The supplemental disclosure or response must state why the additional or correct information was not previously provided.

(e) Signing discovery requests, responses, and objections. Every disclosure, request for discovery, response to a request for discovery, and objection to a request for discovery must be in writing and signed by at least one attorney of record or by the party if the party is not represented. The signature of the attorney or party is a certification under Rule 11. If a request or response is not signed, the receiving party does not need to take any action with respect to it. If a certification is made in violation of the rule, the court, upon motion or upon its own initiative, may take any action authorized by Rule 11 or Rule 37(b).

(f) Filing. Except as required by these rules or ordered by the court, a party must not file with the court a disclosure, a request for discovery, or a response to a request for discovery, but must file only the certificate of service stating that the disclosure, request for discovery, or response has been served on the other parties and the date of service.

Section 2. Rule 510, Rules of Evidence is amended to read:

Rule 510. Miscellaneous Matters.

(a) Waiver of Privilege.

(1)[~~A~~]Except as provided in paragraph (a)(2) or (a)(3), a person who holds a privilege under these rules waives the privilege if the person or a previous holder of the privilege:

~~(a)(1)~~ voluntarily discloses or consents to the disclosure of any significant part of the matter or communication[~~.~~]; or

~~(a)(2)~~ fails to take reasonable precautions against inadvertent disclosure.

(2)[~~This~~]The privilege is not waived if the disclosure is itself a privileged communication.

(3) If a party is an entity that is subject to an audit by the legislative auditor general under Utah Constitution, Article VI, Section 33, and information that is privileged under Rule 504 is disclosed to the legislative auditor general or an arbitrator as described in Utah Code section 36-12-15, the disclosure to the legislative auditor general or the arbitrator does not waive the privilege under paragraph (a)(1).

(b) Inadmissibility of Disclosed Information. Evidence of a statement or other disclosure of privileged matter is not admissible against the holder of the privilege if disclosure was compelled erroneously or made without opportunity to claim the privilege.

(c) Comment or Inference Not Permitted. The claim of privilege, whether in the present proceeding or upon a prior occasion, is not a proper subject of comment by judge or counsel. No inference may be drawn from any claim of privilege.

(d) Claiming Privilege Without the Jury's Knowledge. To the extent practicable, jury cases shall be conducted to allow claims of privilege to be made without the jury's knowledge.

(e) Jury Instruction. Upon request, any party against whom the jury might draw an adverse inference from the claim of privilege is entitled to a jury instruction that no inference may be drawn from that claim of privilege.

(f) Privilege Against Self-Incrimination in Civil Cases. In a civil case, the provisions of [~~paragraph (c)-(e)~~]paragraphs (c) through (e) do not apply when the privilege against self-incrimination has been invoked.

Section 3. Effective Date.

(1) Except as provided in Subsection (2), this resolution takes effect on May 7, 2025.

(2) If S.B. 154, Legislative Audit Amendments, does not pass and become law, this resolution does not take effect.

General Description:

This resolution reaffirms Utah's sovereignty under the principle of federalism.

Highlighted Provisions:

This resolution:

- ► reiterates the powers afforded to states under the United States Constitution and its protections against federal overreach;
- ► explains the significance of the United States Supreme Court's recent "Loper Bright" decision in helping to preserve federalism; and
- ► urges state agencies to review federal regulations in light of the Loper Bright decision and calls on the federal government to respect the state's sovereignty.

Money Appropriated in this Bill:

None

Other Special Clauses:

None

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the state of Utah:

WHEREAS, the 10th Amendment to the United States Constitution reserves to the states powers not delegated to the federal government;

WHEREAS, the 10th Amendment was part of the original Bill of Rights, which was proposed on September 25, 1789, ratified by three-fourths of the states, and went into effect on December 15, 1791;

WHEREAS, as the United States Supreme Court once explained, the 10th Amendment serves to "allay fears that the new national government might seek to exercise powers not granted, and that the states might not be able to exercise fully their reserved powers";

WHEREAS, the 10th Amendment is the cornerstone of constitutional federalism and acts as a bulwark against federal intrusion on state authority and individual liberty;

WHEREAS, the federal government is a government of limited jurisdiction and powers;

WHEREAS, the state has inherent, general jurisdiction and authority under the state's traditional police powers to enact legislation and regulations in subject areas affecting public welfare, safety, health, and morality, as recognized under the 10th Amendment, including over natural resources, water resources and rights, agriculture, education, and energy resources;

WHEREAS, the balance of governing powers between states and the federal government protects the diversity of the states and ensures the self-governing voice of the people;

WHEREAS, the United States Supreme Court recently reinforced the principle of federalism in Loper Bright Enterprises v. Raimondo (the "Loper Bright" decision);

WHEREAS, the Loper Bright decision eliminated the Chevron doctrine, a longstanding precedent that required courts to defer to a federal agency's interpretation of law and resulted in arbitrary and unchecked federal rulemaking;

WHEREAS, the federalism canon, as acknowledged by the United States Supreme Court in the Loper Bright decision, requires courts to presume that federal law does not preempt state law because of the sovereignty states enjoy under the United States Constitution; and

WHEREAS, the Loper Bright decision restores the courts' constitutional role in interpreting the law and deters the federal government from exercising powers not given to it:

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Legislature of the state of Utah reaffirms Utah's sovereignty under the 10th Amendment to the United States Constitution and pledges to safeguard the state's sovereignty from unconstitutional federal overreach.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Legislature of the state of Utah recognizes the significance of the Loper Bright decision in preventing unjustified intrusions into state sovereignty and urges state agencies to review the federal regulations impacting the state to ensure those regulations are lawfully authorized.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Legislature of the state of Utah calls on the federal government to reign in its regulatory apparatus and uphold the balance of powers where the Constitution of the United States established it.

JOINT RESOLUTION AMENDING RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE ON INJUNCTIONS

Chief Sponsor: Brady Brammer
House Sponsor: Jordan D. Teuscher

LONG TITLE
General Description:
This joint resolution amends the Utah Rules of Civil Procedure to address injunctions.
Highlighted Provisions:
This resolution:
► amends Utah Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 65A, to address injunctions; and ► makes technical and conforming changes to Rule 65A.
Other Special Clauses:
This resolution provides a special effective date.
Utah Rules of Civil Procedure Affected:
AMENDS:
Rule 65A, Utah Rules of Civil Procedure

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the state of Utah, two-thirds of all members elected to each of the two houses voting in favor thereof:
As provided in Utah Constitution Article VIII, Section 4, the Legislature may amend rules of procedure and evidence adopted by the Utah Supreme Court upon a two-thirds vote of all members of both houses of the Legislature:

Section 1. Rule 65A, Utah Rules of Civil Procedure is amended to read:
Rule 65A. Injunctions.

(a) Preliminary injunctions.

~~(a)~~ Notice. No preliminary injunction shall be issued without notice to the adverse party.

~~(a)~~ Consolidation of hearing. Before or after the commencement of the hearing of an application for a preliminary injunction, the court may order the trial of the action on the merits to be advanced and consolidated with the hearing of the application. Even when this consolidation is not ordered, any evidence received upon an application for a preliminary injunction which would be admissible at the trial on the merits becomes part of the trial record and need not be repeated at the trial. This [~~subdivision~~]paragraph (a)(2) shall be so construed and applied as to save to the parties any rights they may have to trial by jury.

(b) Temporary restraining orders.

~~(b)~~ Notice. No temporary restraining order shall be granted without notice to the adverse party or that party's attorney unless:

(A) it clearly appears from specific facts shown by affidavit or by the verified complaint that immediate and irreparable injury, loss, or damage will result to the applicant before the adverse party or that party's attorney can be heard in opposition[~~,~~]; and

(B) the applicant or the applicant's attorney certifies to the court in writing as to the efforts, if any, that have been made to give notice and the reasons supporting the claim that notice should not be required.

~~(b)~~ Form of order. Every temporary restraining order shall be endorsed with the date and hour of issuance and shall be filed forthwith in the clerk's office and entered of record. The order shall define the injury and state why it is irreparable. The order shall expire by its terms within such time after entry, not to exceed 14 days, as the court fixes, unless within the time so fixed the order, for good cause shown, is extended for a like period or unless the party against whom the order is directed consents that it may be extended for a longer period. The reasons for the extension shall be entered of record.

~~(b)~~ Priority of hearing. If a temporary restraining order is granted, the motion for a preliminary injunction shall be scheduled for hearing at the earliest possible time and takes precedence over all other civil matters except older matters of the same character. When the motion comes on for hearing, the party who obtained the temporary restraining order shall have the burden to show entitlement to a preliminary injunction; if the party does not do so, the court shall dissolve the temporary restraining order.

~~(b)~~ Dissolution or modification. On 48 hours' notice to the party who obtained the temporary restraining order without notice, or on such shorter notice to that party as the court may prescribe, the adverse party may appear and move its dissolution or modification. In that event the court shall proceed to hear and determine the motion as expeditiously as the ends of justice require.

(c) Filing requirements for a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction of a state law.

(1) Definition. As used in this paragraph (c), "state law" means a state statute, a proposed amendment to the Utah Constitution, or any other legislation passed by the Legislature.

(2) Temporary restraining order for a state law with delayed implementation.

(A) An applicant must file a motion for a temporary restraining order at least 45 days before a state law takes effect if:

(i) the state law takes effect more than 60 days after the day on which the Legislature adjourns sine die from the general or special session in which the Legislature passed the state law;

(ii) the applicant is challenging the constitutionality of the state law; and

(iii) the applicant seeks to enjoin the execution or enforcement of the state law before the state law becomes effective.

(B) If an applicant fails to bring a motion for a temporary restraining order under paragraph (c)(3)(A) before the 45-day requirement, the applicant may not bring a motion for a temporary restraining order to enjoin the execution or enforcement of the state law until the state law has been in effect for at least 90 days.

(C) This paragraph (c)(2) does not preclude an applicant from bringing a motion for a preliminary injunction to enjoin the execution or enforcement of a state law that takes effect more than 60 days after the day on which the Legislature adjourns sine die from the general or special session in which the Legislature passed the state law.

(3) Response to motion for temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction. Notwithstanding the filing deadline for a response to a motion under Rule 7 of the Utah Rules of Civil Procedure, an adverse party must file a response to a motion for a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction within 28 days after a motion is filed if:

(A) the applicant is challenging the constitutionality of the state law; and

(B) the applicant seeks to enjoin the execution or enforcement of the state law before the state law becomes effective.

~~(c)~~ Security.

~~(c)~~ Requirement. The court shall condition issuance of the order or injunction on the giving of security by the applicant, in such sum and form as the court deems proper, unless it appears that none of the parties will incur or suffer costs, attorney fees or damage as the result of any wrongful order or injunction, or unless there exists some other substantial reason for dispensing with the requirement of security. No such security shall be required of the United States, the State of Utah, or of an officer, agency, or subdivision of either; nor shall it be required when it is prohibited by law.

~~(c)~~ Amount not a limitation. The amount of security shall not establish or limit the amount of costs, including reasonable attorney fees incurred in connection with the restraining order or preliminary injunction, or damages that may be awarded to a party who is found to have been wrongfully restrained or enjoined.

~~(c)~~ Jurisdiction over surety. A surety upon a bond or undertaking under this rule submits to the jurisdiction of the court and irrevocably appoints the clerk of the court as agent upon whom any papers affecting the surety's liability on the bond or undertaking may be served. The surety's liability may be enforced on motion without the necessity of an independent action. The motion and such notice of the motion as the court prescribes may be served on the clerk of the court who shall forthwith mail copies to the persons giving the security if their addresses are known.

~~(d)~~ Form and scope. Every restraining order and order granting an injunction shall set forth the reasons for its issuance. It shall be specific in terms and shall describe in reasonable detail, and not by reference to the complaint or other document, the act or acts sought to be restrained. It shall be binding only upon the parties to the action, their officers, agents, servants, employees, and attorneys, and upon those persons in active concert or participation with them who receive notice, in person or through counsel, or otherwise, of the order. If a restraining order is granted without notice to the party restrained, it shall state the reasons justifying the court's decision to proceed without notice.

~~(e)~~ Grounds. A restraining order or preliminary injunction may issue only upon a showing by the applicant that:

~~(e)~~ there is a substantial likelihood that the applicant will prevail on the merits of the underlying claim:

~~(e)~~ the applicant will suffer irreparable harm unless the order or injunction issues;

~~(e)~~ the threatened injury to the applicant outweighs whatever damage the proposed order or injunction may cause the party restrained or enjoined; and

~~(e)~~ the order or injunction, if issued, would not be adverse to the public interest.

~~(f)~~ Motion for reconsideration.

~~(f)~~ A party enjoined or restrained by a restraining order or a preliminary injunction on February 14, 2023, may move the court to reconsider whether the order or injunction should remain in effect if the order or injunction:

(A) is in writing;

(B) is restraining or enjoining the enforcement of a law; and

(C) explicitly states that the court granted the order or injunction on the ground that the case presented serious issues on the merits which should be the subject of further litigation.

~~(f)~~ A motion for reconsideration under this paragraph ~~(f)~~ may be filed at any time before the final determination of the case.

~~(f)~~ Upon a motion for reconsideration, the court must determine whether the issuance of the restraining order or preliminary injunction meets the requirements in paragraph ~~(e)~~ regardless of the requirements for the issuance of the order or injunction on the day on which the order or injunction was issued.

~~(f)~~ If the court determines that the issuance of the restraining order or preliminary injunction does not meet the requirements of paragraph ~~(e)~~, the court must terminate the order or injunction.

~~(g)~~ Domestic relations cases. Nothing in this rule shall be construed to limit the equitable powers of the courts in domestic relations cases.

Section 2. Effective date.

As provided in Utah Constitution, Article VIII, Section 4, this resolution takes effect upon a two-thirds vote of all members elected to each house.

JOINT RESOLUTION AMENDING COURT RULES REGARDING PLEAS

Chief Sponsor: Stephanie Pitcher
House Sponsor: Ryan D. Wilcox

LONG TITLE

General Description:

This joint resolution amends court rules of procedure regarding pleas.

Highlighted Provisions:

This resolution:

► amends Utah Rules of Criminal Procedure, Rule 11, to address pleas; and ► makes technical and conforming changes.

Other Special Clauses:

This resolution provides a special effective date.

Utah Rules of Criminal Procedure Affected:

AMENDS:

Rule 11, Utah Rules of Criminal Procedure

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the state of Utah, two-thirds of all members elected to each of the two houses voting in favor thereof:
As provided in Utah Constitution Article VIII, Section 4, the Legislature may amend rules of procedure and evidence adopted by the Utah Supreme Court upon a two-thirds vote of all members of both houses of the Legislature:

Section 1. Rule 11, Utah Rules of Criminal Procedure is amended to read:
Rule 11. Pleas.

(a) Right to Counsel. Upon arraignment, except for an infraction, a defendant must be represented by counsel, unless the defendant waives counsel in open court. The defendant must not be required to plead until the defendant has had a reasonable time to confer with counsel.

(b) Types of pleas. A defendant may plead not guilty, guilty, no contest, not guilty by reason of insanity, or guilty [~~and mentally ill~~]with a mental condition at the time of the offense. A defendant may plead in the alternative not guilty or not guilty by reason of insanity. If a defendant refuses to plead or if a defendant corporation fails to appear, the court will enter a plea of not guilty.

(c) No contest plea. A defendant may plead no contest only with the consent of the court.

(d) Not guilty plea. When a defendant enters a plea of not guilty, the case will be set for trial. A defendant unable to make bail must be given a preference for an early trial. In cases other than felonies the court will advise the defendant, or counsel, of the requirements for making a written demand for a jury trial.

(e) Guilty plea. The court may refuse to accept a plea of guilty, no contest, or guilty [~~and mentally ill~~]with a mental condition at the time of the offense, and may not accept the plea until the court has found:

~~(e)~~ if the defendant is not represented by counsel, [~~he or she~~]the defendant has knowingly waived the right to counsel and does not desire counsel;

~~(e)~~ the plea is voluntarily made;

~~(e)~~ the defendant knows of the right to the presumption of innocence, the right against compulsory self-incrimination, the right to a speedy public trial before an impartial jury, the right to confront and cross-examine in open court the prosecution witnesses, the right to compel the attendance of defense witnesses, and that by entering the plea, these rights are waived;

~~(e)~~(A) the defendant understands the nature and elements of the offense to which the plea is entered, that upon trial the prosecution would have the burden of proving each of those elements beyond a reasonable doubt, and that the plea is an admission of all those elements; and

~~(e)(4)~~ there is a factual basis for the plea. A factual basis is sufficient if it establishes that the charged crime was actually committed by the defendant or, if the defendant refuses or is otherwise unable to admit culpability, that the prosecution has sufficient evidence to establish a substantial risk of conviction;

~~(e)~~ the defendant knows the minimum and maximum sentence, and if applicable, the minimum mandatory nature of the minimum sentence, that may be imposed for each offense to which a plea is entered, including the possibility of the imposition of consecutive sentences;

~~(e)~~ if the tendered plea is a result of a prior plea discussion and plea agreement, and if so, what agreement has been reached;

~~(e)~~ the defendant has been advised of the time limits for filing any motion to withdraw the plea; and

~~(e)~~ the defendant has been advised that the right of appeal is limited.

These findings may be based on questioning of the defendant on the record or, if used, a written statement reciting these factors after the court has established that the defendant has read, understood, and acknowledged the contents of the statement. If the defendant cannot understand the English language, it will be sufficient that the statement has been read or translated to the defendant.

Unless specifically required by statute or rule, a court is not required to inquire into or advise concerning any collateral consequences of a plea.

(f) Motion to withdraw plea.

(1) A defendant may withdraw a plea of not guilty at any time before conviction.

(2) A defendant must make a motion to withdraw a plea of guilty, no contest, or guilty with a mental condition at the time of the offense before the sentence is announced. The court may not announce the defendant's sentence unless the motion to withdraw the plea is denied.

(3) A defendant must make a motion to withdraw a plea in abeyance within 30 days after the day on which the court accepts the defendant's plea of guilty or no contest.

(4) If a motion to withdraw a plea is not made within the time period described in this paragraph (f), the defendant may challenge the plea in accordance with the preservation rule, or an established exception to the preservation rule, in a direct appeal.

(5)Failure to advise the defendant of the time limits for filing any motion to withdraw a plea[~~ of guilty, no contest or guilty and mentally ill~~] is not a ground for setting the plea aside, but may be the ground for extending the time to make a motion under [~~Utah Code § 77-13-6~~]this paragraph (f).

(g) Plea in domestic violence offense. If the defendant pleads guilty, no contest, or guilty [~~and mentally ill~~]with a mental condition at the time of the offense to a misdemeanor crime of domestic violence, as defined in Utah Code [~~§~~]section 77-36-1, the court will advise the defendant orally or in writing that, if the case meets the criteria of 18 U.S.C. [~~§~~]Sec. 921(a)(33) or Utah Code [~~§~~]section 76-10-503 then pursuant to federal law or state law, it is unlawful for the defendant to possess, receive or transport any firearm or ammunition. The failure to advise does not render the plea invalid or form the basis for withdrawal of the plea.

(h) Plea recommendations.

~~(h)~~ If it appears that the prosecuting attorney or any other party has agreed to request or recommend the acceptance of a plea to a lesser included offense, or the dismissal of other charges, the agreement must be approved or rejected by the court.

~~(h)~~ If sentencing recommendations are allowed by the court, the court will advise the defendant personally that any recommendation as to sentence is not binding on the court.

(i) Plea agreements.

~~(i)~~ The judge will not participate in plea discussions prior to any plea agreement being made by the prosecuting attorney.

~~(i)~~ When a tentative plea agreement has been reached, the judge, upon request of the parties, may permit the disclosure of the tentative agreement and the reasons for it, in advance of the time for tender of the plea. The judge may then indicate to the prosecuting attorney and defense counsel whether the proposed disposition will be approved.

~~(i)~~ If the judge then decides that final disposition should not be in conformity with the plea agreement, the judge must advise the parties as to the nature of the divergence from the plea agreement and then call upon the parties to either affirm or withdraw from the plea agreement.

(j) Conditional plea. With approval of the court and the consent of the prosecution, a defendant may enter a conditional plea of guilty, guilty [~~and mentally ill~~]with a mental condition at the time of the offense, or no contest, reserving in the record the right, on appeal from the judgment, to a review of the adverse determination of any specified pre-trial motion. A defendant who prevails on appeal will be allowed to withdraw the plea.

(k) Guilty [~~and mentally ill~~]with a mental condition at the time of the offense. When a defendant tenders a plea of guilty [~~and mentally ill~~]with a mental condition at the time of the offense, in addition to the other requirements of this rule, the court will hold a hearing within a reasonable time to determine if the defendant [~~is mentally ill~~]had a mental condition in accordance with Utah Code [§]section 77-16a-103.

(l) Strict compliance not necessary. Compliance with this rule will be determined by examining the record as a whole. Any variance from procedures required by this rule which does not affect substantial rights will be disregarded. Failure to comply with this rule is not, by itself, sufficient grounds for a collateral attack on a guilty plea.

Section 2. Effective Date.

As provided in Utah Constitution, Article VIII, Section 4, this resolution takes effect upon a two-thirds vote of all members elected to each house.

Section 2. Effective Date.

This bill takes effect on May 7, 2025.

Mar. 24, 2025

President Adams, Speaker Schultz, and Members of the Utah Legislature,

One of the things I love most about serving as governor is the opportunity to work with all of you to make Utah an even better place to live, work, and raise a family. Over the last few years, we've done some truly remarkable things together — historic investments in education, record tax relief, and important work to strengthen trust in our institutions. This legislative session was no exception and you should be incredibly proud of what you were able to accomplish.

The decision to veto bills is one that I take very seriously and try to use very rarely. I understand the work that goes into passing legislation and believe in the process that refines and leads to better outcomes. Signing or vetoing a bill is not the same as voting for a bill — I sign many bills that I would not have voted for and try to be very selective of those I choose not to sign or veto. Please know that in the 20 days allotted to me, I carefully and thoughtfully review every single one of the 582 bills that were passed.

As I mentioned earlier, I care deeply about trust in our institutions, and I know that you do too. Trust is the currency of governing. Sadly, we know that trust is eroding across almost all institutions in our country. Over the next few days I will make final decisions on potential vetoes. In every case, I will do my best to explain my reasoning — never personal — and always with an eye to improving the public's trust in you and me and the institutions we represent.

When it comes to trust, nothing is more critical or sacred than the way we handle taxpayer dollars. After receiving veto requests from the State Auditor, State Board of Education, the Utah School Boards Association, and the Utah School Superintendents Association, I have decided to veto Senate Bill 37, Minimum Basic Tax Rate Amendments.

At its core, this bill changes how we collect and distribute the state portion of property tax revenues for schools. Right now, Utahns are correctly told by their government that their local property tax dollars are going to fund their local schools. That arrangement is spelled out specifically in our annual property tax notices, and it's a promise we've honored for decades. SB 37 represents a clear departure from this practice by moving those dollars into the state's general fund, with income tax revenues replacing them before they go back out to districts. At a minimum, such accounting creates a perception problem as we lose the direct connection between taxpayers and their neighborhood schools.

But the change is more than just a perception problem. Moving restricted property tax funding into the general fund creates significant technical and legal questions. For one, it's not entirely clear whether these property tax dollars, once they land in the general fund, still carry the restrictions that have always protected them for education use. Without that clarity, future legislatures could easily redirect those funds to other priorities and away from Utah schoolchildren. I oppose that change.

Then there's the accounting side of things. SB 37 sets up a complicated system where school districts have to track these dollars as both incoming and outgoing revenue, while the state does the same. This "grossing up" makes financial statements look inflated, which creates confusion not just for taxpayers, but also for bondholders and auditors who rely on clean, straightforward reports. Utah has earned a reputation for being one of the best-managed states in the country. Part of that reputation comes from keeping things simple, clear, and transparent. I worry that this bill puts that at risk — a worry expressed by State Auditor Tina Cannon, whose letter and request for a veto is attached for your review.

Even if I were to ignore these legal and accounting issues, I also worry that this bill sends the wrong message to our schools and teachers about the value we place on our education funding. I am grateful for, and proud of, the incredible education funding the legislature has provided over the past 4 years — a record $2.6 billion! I am especially proud of Utah's newest ranking: top 10 in the nation for starting teacher salaries. You should be commended for your leadership on this critical issue that is so important to our fellow Utahns. I would never want to do anything that would undermine our shared commitment to education funding.

As an aside, I remain concerned about the sheer number of bills introduced and passed each session, including education bills. I will have more to say about that later this week.

I appreciate the work that went into SB 37, and I respect the effort to tackle tough issues. But for all these reasons — public trust; accounting and legal challenges; protection of education funding; and the message to our educators — I'm vetoing the bill. I'm confident that, working together, we can find a better path forward.

Thank you, as always, for your service, your leadership, and your partnership. I'm grateful for all you do, and I look forward to working together on solutions that move Utah forward.

With respect and appreciation,

(1) (a) Each project entity created under this chapter that owns a project and that sells any capacity, service, or other benefit from it to an energy supplier or suppliers whose tangible property is not exempted by Utah Constitution Article XIII, Section 3, from the payment of ad valorem property tax, shall pay an annual fee in lieu of ad valorem property tax as provided in this section to each taxing jurisdiction within which the project or any part of it is located.

(b) For purposes of this section, "annual fee" means the annual fee described in Subsection (1)(a) that is in lieu of ad valorem property tax.

(c) The requirement to pay an annual fee shall commence:

(i) with respect to each taxing jurisdiction that is a candidate receiving the benefit of impact alleviation payments under contracts or determination orders provided for in Sections 11-13-305 and 11-13-306, with the fiscal year of the candidate following the fiscal year of the candidate in which the date of commercial operation of the last generating unit, other than any generating unit providing additional project capacity, of the project occurs, or, in the case of any facilities providing additional project capacity, with the fiscal year of the candidate following the fiscal year of the candidate in which the date of commercial operation of the generating unit providing the additional project capacity occurs; and

(ii) with respect to any taxing jurisdiction other than a taxing jurisdiction described in Subsection (1)(c)(i), with the fiscal year of the taxing jurisdiction in which construction of the project commences, or, in the case of facilities providing additional project capacity, with the fiscal year of the taxing jurisdiction in which construction of those facilities commences.

(d) The requirement to pay an annual fee shall continue for the period of the useful life of the project or facilities.

(2) (a) The annual fees due a school district shall be as provided in Subsection (2)(b)because the ad valorem property tax imposed by a school district and authorized by the Legislature represents both:

(i) a levy [~~mandated by~~]the state mandates as a condition of receiving state funding for the state minimum school program under Section 53F-2-301; and

(ii) local levies for capital outlay and other purposes under Sections 53F-8-303, 53F-8-301, and 53F-8-302.

(b) The annual fees due a school district shall be as follows:

(i) the project entity shall pay to the [~~school district~~]state an annual fee for the state minimum school program at the rate imposed by the school district and authorized by the Legislature under Section 53F-2-301; and

(ii) for all other local property tax levies authorized to be imposed by a school district, the project entity shall pay to the school district either:

(A) an annual fee; or

(B) impact alleviation payments under contracts or determination orders provided for in Sections 11-13-305 and 11-13-306.

(3) (a) An annual fee due a taxing jurisdiction for a particular year shall be calculated by multiplying the tax rate or rates of the jurisdiction for that year by the product obtained by multiplying the fee base or value determined in accordance with Subsection (4) for that year of the portion of the project located within the jurisdiction by the percentage of the project which is used to produce the capacity, service, or other benefit sold to the energy supplier or suppliers.

(b) As used in this section, "tax rate," when applied in respect to a school district, includes any assessment to be made by the school district under Subsection (2) or Section 63M-5-302.

(c) There is to be credited against the annual fee due a taxing jurisdiction for each year, an amount equal to the debt service, if any, payable in that year by the project entity on bonds, the proceeds of which were used to provide public facilities and services for impact alleviation in the taxing jurisdiction in accordance with Sections 11-13-305and 11-13-306.

(d) The tax rate for the taxing jurisdiction for that year shall be computed so as to:

(i) take into account the fee base or value of the percentage of the project located within the taxing jurisdiction determined in accordance with Subsection (4) used to produce the capacity, service, or other benefit sold to the supplier or suppliers; and

(ii) reflect any credit to be given in that year.

(4) (a) Except as otherwise provided in this section, the annual fees required by this section shall be paid, collected, and distributed to the taxing jurisdiction as if:

(i) the annual fees were ad valorem property taxes; and

(ii) the project were assessed at the same rate and upon the same measure of value as taxable property in the state.

(b) (i) Notwithstanding Subsection (4)(a), for purposes of an annual fee required by this section, the fee base of a project may be determined in accordance with an agreement among:

(A) the project entity; and

(B) any county that:

(I) is due an annual fee from the project entity; and

(II) agrees to have the fee base of the project determined in accordance with the agreement described in this Subsection (4).

(ii) The agreement described in Subsection (4)(b)(i):

(A) shall specify each year for which the fee base determined by the agreement shall be used for purposes of an annual fee; and

(B) may not modify any provision of this chapter except the method by which the fee base of a project is determined for purposes of an annual fee.

(iii) For purposes of an annual fee imposed by a taxing jurisdiction within a county described in Subsection (4)(b)(i)(B), the fee base determined by the agreement described in Subsection (4)(b)(i) shall be used for purposes of an annual fee imposed by that taxing jurisdiction.

(iv) (A) If there is not agreement as to the fee base of a portion of a project for any year, for purposes of an annual fee, the State Tax Commission shall determine the value of that portion of the project for which there is not an agreement:

(I) for that year; and

(II) using the same measure of value as is used for taxable property in the state.

(B) The valuation required by Subsection (4)(b)(iv)(A) shall be made by the State Tax Commission in accordance with rules made by the State Tax Commission.

(c) Payments of the annual fees shall be made from:

(i) the proceeds of bonds issued for the project; and

(ii) revenues derived by the project entity from the project.

(d) (i) The contracts of the project entity with the purchasers of the capacity, service, or other benefits of the project whose tangible property is not exempted by Utah Constitution Article XIII, Section 3, from the payment of ad valorem property tax shall require each purchaser, whether or not located in the state, to pay, to the extent not otherwise provided for, its share, determined in accordance with the terms of the contract, of these fees.

(ii) It is the responsibility of the project entity to enforce the obligations of the purchasers.

(5) (a) The responsibility of the project entity to make payment of the annual fees is limited to the extent that there is legally available to the project entity, from bond proceeds or revenues, money to make these payments, and the obligation to make payments of the annual fees is not otherwise a general obligation or liability of the project entity.

(b) No tax lien may attach upon any property or money of the project entity by virtue of any failure to pay all or any part of an annual fee.

(c) The project entity or any purchaser may contest the validity of an annual fee to the same extent as if the payment was a payment of the ad valorem property tax itself.

(d) The payments of an annual fee shall be reduced to the extent that any contest is successful.

(6) (a) The annual fee described in Subsection (1):

(i) shall be paid by a public agency that:

(A) is not a project entity; and

(B) owns an interest in a facility providing additional project capacity if the interest is otherwise exempt from taxation pursuant to Utah Constitution, Article XIII, Section 3; and

(ii) for a public agency described in Subsection (6)(a)(i), shall be calculated in accordance with Subsection (6)(b).

(b) The annual fee required under Subsection (6)(a) shall be an amount equal to the tax rate or rates of the applicable taxing jurisdiction multiplied by the product of the following:

(i) the fee base or value of the facility providing additional project capacity located within the jurisdiction;

(ii) the percentage of the ownership interest of the public agency in the facility; and

(iii) the portion, expressed as a percentage, of the public agency's ownership interest that is attributable to the capacity, service, or other benefit from the facility that is sold, including any subsequent sale, resale, or layoff, by the public agency to an energy supplier or suppliers whose tangible property is not exempted by Utah Constitution, Article XIII, Section 3, from the payment of ad valorem property tax.

(c) A public agency paying the annual fee pursuant to Subsection (6)(a) shall have the obligations, credits, rights, and protections set forth in Subsections (1) through (5)with respect to its ownership interest as though it were a project entity.

(d) On or before March 1 of each year, a project entity that owns a project and that provides any capacity, service, or other benefit to an energy supplier or a public agency shall file an electronic report with the State Tax Commission that identifies:

(i) each energy supplier and public agency to which the project entity delivers capacity, service, or other benefit; and

(ii) the amount of capacity, service, or other benefit delivered to each energy supplier and public agency.

Section 2. Section 53F-2-205 is amended to read:

(3) If the number of weighted pupil units in a program is overestimated, the state board shall spend excess money appropriated for the following purposes giving priority to the purpose described in Subsection (3)(a):

(a) to support the value of the weighted pupil unit in a program within the basic state-supported school program in which the number of weighted pupil units is underestimated;

(b) to support the state guaranteed local levy increments as defined in Section 53F-2-601, if:

(e) to support a school district with a loss in student enrollment as provided in Section 53F-2-207.

[~~(4) If local contributions from the minimum basic tax rate imposed under Section 53F-2-301 are overestimated, the state board shall reduce the value of the weighted pupil unit for all programs within the basic state-supported school program so the total state contribution to the basic state-supported school program does not exceed the amount of state funds appropriated.~~]

[~~(5) If local contributions from the minimum basic tax rate imposed under Section 53F-2-301 are underestimated, the state board shall:~~]

[~~(a) spend the excess local contributions for the purposes specified in Subsection (3), giving priority to supporting the value of the weighted pupil unit in programs within the basic state-supported school program in which the number of weighted pupil units is underestimated; and~~]

[~~(b) reduce the state contribution to the basic state-supported school program so the total cost of the basic state-supported school program does not exceed the total state and local funds appropriated to the basic state-supported school program plus the local contributions necessary to support the value of the weighted pupil unit in programs within the basic state-supported school program in which the number of weighted pupil units is underestimated.~~]

~~(6)~~ Except as provided in Subsection (3)[~~or (5)~~], the state board shall reduce the state guarantee per weighted pupil unit provided under the local levy state guarantee program described in Section 53F-2-601, if:

(a) local contributions to the voted local levy program or board local levy program are overestimated; or

(b) the number of weighted pupil units within school districts qualifying for a guarantee is underestimated.

~~(7)~~ Money appropriated to the state board is nonlapsing, including appropriations to the Minimum School Program and all agencies, line items, and programs under the jurisdiction of the state board.

[~~(i) the combined basic rate; and~~]

[~~(ii) the basic levy increment rate.~~]

[~~(b) (i) If the difference described in Subsection (6)(a) equals or exceeds the cost of the basic school program in a school district, no state contribution shall be made to the basic school program for the school district.~~]

Section 4. Section 53F-2-515 is amended to read:

53F-2-515. Federal Impact Aid Program -- Offset for underestimated allocations from the Federal Impact Aid Program.

(1) In addition to [~~the revenues received from the levy imposed by a local school board and authorized by the Legislature under Section 53F-2-301~~]funds the Legislature appropriates to the basic school program, the Legislature shall provide an amount equal to the difference between the school district's anticipated receipts under the entitlement for the fiscal year from the Federal Impact Aid Program and the amount the school district actually received from this source for the next preceding fiscal year.

(2) If at the end of a fiscal year the sum of the receipts of a school district from a distribution from the Legislature pursuant to Subsection (1) plus the school district's allocations from the Federal Impact Aid Program for that fiscal year exceeds the amount allocated to the school district from the Federal Impact Aid Program for the next preceding fiscal year, the excess funds are carried into the next succeeding fiscal year and become in that year a part of the school district's contribution [~~to~~]toward the cost of the school district's basic program for operation and maintenance under the state minimum school finance law.

(3) During the next succeeding fiscal year described in Subsection (2), the school district's required tax rate for the basic program shall be reduced so that the yield from the reduced tax rate plus the carryover funds equal the school district's required contribution [~~to~~]toward the cost of the school district's basic program.

(4) For the school district of a local school board that is required to reduce the school district's basic tax rate under this section, the school district shall receive state minimum school program funds as though the reduction in the tax rate had not been made.

Section 5. Section 59-2-902 is amended to read:

59-2-902. Minimum basic tax levy for school districts.

(1) If any county fails to comply with Section 59-2-704, then this section determines the adjustment of the basic school levy for school districts within the county.

(2) (a) Before June 15, the commission shall ascertain from the State Board of Education the number of weighted pupil units in each school district in the state for the school year commencing July 1 of the current calendar year, estimated according to the Minimum School Program Act, and the money necessary for the cost of the operation and maintenance of the minimum school program of the state for the school fiscal year beginning July 1 of the current calendar year.

(b) The commission shall then estimate the amounts of all surpluses in the Uniform School Fund, as of July 1 of the current calendar year, available for the operation and maintenance of the program, and shall estimate the anticipated income to the fund available for those purposes for the current school year from all sources, including revenues from taxes on income or from taxes on intangible property pursuant to Article XIII, Sec. 12, Utah Constitution.

~~(2)~~ The commission shall then determine for each school district the amount to be raised by the minimum basic tax levy as its contribution toward the cost of the basic state-supported program, as required by the Minimum School Program Act.

~~(3)~~ Each county auditor shall be notified by the commission that the minimum basic tax levy shall be imposed by the school district, to which shall be added an additional amount, if any, due to local undervaluation as provided in this section.

(a) The auditor shall inform the county legislative body as to the amount of the levy.

(b) The county legislative body shall at the time and in the manner provided by law make the levy upon the taxable property in the school district together with further levies for school purposes as may be required by each school district to pay the costs of programs in excess of the basic state-supported school program.

~~(4)~~ [~~If the levy applied under this section raises an amount in excess of the total basic state-supported school program for a school district, the excess amount shall be remitted by the school district to the State Board of Education to be credited to the Uniform School Fund for allocation to school districts to support the basic state-supported school program.~~]The availability of money shall be considered by the commission in fixing the state property levy as provided in the Minimum School Program Act.

~~(5)~~ (a) If the levy does not raise an amount in excess of an amount equal to the cost of the total basic state-supported school program for a district, then the difference between the amount which the local levy will raise within the district, and the total cost of the basic state-supported school program within the district shall be computed. [~~This difference, if any, shall be apportioned from the Uniform School Fund to each school district as the contribution of the state to the basic state-supported school program for the district, subject to the following conditions:~~]

~~(a)~~ (i) [~~Before the apportionment is made, the~~]The commission shall determine if the local taxable valuation of any school district is undervalued according to law and if so, the dollar amount of the undervaluation.

(ii) The dollar amount of the undervaluation shall be multiplied by the district basic uniform school levy at 98%.

(iii) The resulting dollar amount shall be divided by the current year estimated yield of .0002 per dollar of taxable value at 98% based on the district's taxable valuation prior to adjusting for undervaluation.

~~(b)~~ (i) The resulting levy amount shall be added to the required district basic uniform levy to determine the combined district basic school levy adjusted for undervaluation.

(ii) The combined rate of levy shall be certified to the county auditor and employed by the auditor and the county legislative body in lieu of the required basic school local levy.

Mar. 25, 2025

Dear President Adams, Speaker Schultz, and Members of the Legislature,

As we near the end of this year's bill review session, I want you to know how much I truly appreciate you and the work that you do on behalf of the people of Utah. The work of a legislator is never truly done, and you sacrifice countless hours on behalf of your constituents. Utah is a better place because of the work you do.

I hope you will forgive the length of this letter. Please note that, while this letter is directed to you, it is also intended for the citizens of our state. As such, I hope you will not be offended by my sharing several extended passages from the founding period of our country, as it is critical to my thinking around this bill. We are lucky to live in a state with a legislature that is deeply committed to the teaching of civics; I proudly signed H.B. 381, Civics Education Amendments (Rep. Welton) and S.B. 334, Center for Civics Excellence at Utah State (Sen. Johnson) yesterday. I believe they are two of the most important bills of the 2025 session. And yet, I digress.

I have had the unique opportunity to work and serve in all three branches of government. I am grateful to live in a state that chose a form of government virtually identical to our national government. That means the ideas and writings of the founders of our great nation apply directly to our own government institutions. Indeed, it is the words of Madison, Adams, Hamilton, and others that have influenced my decision today.

Utah is tremendously blessed to have an active, engaged legislature. (Granted, 582 bills may be a bit too active … but we'll leave that discussion for another time.) Our system — with three separate, distinct, independent, and coordinate branches of government — simply does not work without a strong, diligent, and effective Legislature.

Most people believe that our three branches of government are "co-equal" branches of government. However, that is not exactly correct. While all three hold equal status and separate and important powers that serve to check and balance the others, the founders understood and intended that the legislative branch would be the most powerful. In Federalist 51, James Madison succinctly noted that "[i]n a Republican Government, the legislative authority necessarily predominates."

This was both a good thing and an area of concern. On the positive side, John Adams posited that the legislative branch "is the only instrument by which the body of the people can act; the only in which their opinions can be known and collected; the only means by which their wills can be united, and the strength exerted, according to any principle or continued system."

And yet, the founders worried about any one branch gaining too much power. In Federalist 71, Alexander Hamilton warned against legislative dominance:

> The tendency of the legislative authority to absorb every other, has been fully displayed and illustrated by examples in some preceding numbers. In governments purely republican, this tendency is almost irresistible. The representatives of the people, in a popular assembly, seem sometimes to fancy that they are the people themselves, and betray strong symptoms of impatience and disgust at the least sign of opposition from any other quarter; as if the exercise of its rights, by either the executive or judiciary, were a breach of their privilege and an outrage to their dignity. They often appear disposed to exert an imperious control over the other departments; and as they commonly have the people on their side, they always act with such momentum as to make it very difficult for the other members of the government to maintain the balance of the constitution.

I want to thank you as legislators for very often rejecting that "irresistible" tendency to "exert imperious control" over the other branches of government. Just this session, troublesome bills failed that could have been categorized as overreaches. I am the first to recognize that you are often unfairly criticized for every bill idea that may come forward, even when your process serves to improve those bills or eliminate them altogether. And yet, the founders believed each branch would jealously guard their own power from incursions — in fact they counted on it — and used that tension to design a system that has survived for 237 years. Unlike your federal counterparts, you have jealously guarded your authority and I support you in doing so.[1]

I feel confident that, at least in recent memory, no governor has been more supportive of the legislature. I am profoundly grateful for the opportunity I had to serve in the House of Representatives. I have frequently stood up for your role and defended many decisions, even when unpopular. Following the pandemic, when you decided to take back some of your emergency powers that had been delegated to the executive branch, I willingly signed the bill. In fact, I believe so strongly in your role that I filed an amicus brief supporting you in the League of Women Voters case. In that brief, I wrote that what I was defending was "the legislature's ability to use its constitutionally delegated power as part of our republican system of government." I may not always agree with you, but I will always defend your role and the essential part you play.

[1] Sadly, they never could have predicted our current Congress that has completely abdicated its power to the president, the judicial branch, and an unforeseen and unelected bureaucracy. Congress has somehow become the weakest branch of government to the detriment of our nation.

While the legislative branch was intended to be the most powerful branch of government, it was not intended to be all-powerful. The founders wisely implemented measures to help check those almost irresistible tendencies, including dividing the legislative body in two (with different constituencies and terms of service), giving the executive branch a veto power and — most importantly — creating an independent judicial branch.

Just as a strong legislative branch is critical, so too is an independent judiciary. As constitutional scholar Yuval Levin has written, "Perhaps above all, the new system would require the courts to play an active part in the interbranch struggle for power that the Constitution rendered intentionally complicated and unsettled. Federal courts would police the structures and boundaries of the system, and this required them to be genuinely independent … And the framers' commitment to this independence was extraordinary." In Federalist 78, Alexander Hamilton specifically spelled out the importance of "[t]he complete independence of the courts of justice … [f]or I agree, that 'there is no liberty, if the power of judging be not separated from the legislative and executive powers.'"

The founders very intentionally sought to protect the judiciary from democratic politics as a way of guarding them from both branches of government. In the words of Justice Clarence Thomas, "[i]t is this ability to render judgement without concern for anything but the law, that should distinguish judges from members of the legislature or the executive branch. As Americans, we have long recognized the importance of an independent judiciary to our ongoing experiment in democracy."

And this brings me to SB 296.

This bill changes the longstanding statute under which the Utah Supreme Court elects its own leader, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. S.B. 296 seeks to establish a process in which the Chief Justice would be appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate. Supporters of the bill correctly point out that the Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court is appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate. If that were all the bill did, it is something I could support. However, this bill takes a very meaningful and problematic additional step: requiring the appointment process to occur every four years. This means that, unlike the selection of the Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, the Chief Justice of the Utah Supreme Court would be required to go through a political appointment, a Senate confirmation committee, and full Senate confirmation processes every four years.

It is not lost on me that this bill actually gives me — the Governor — more power than I currently possess. I admit it is very tempting to sign this bill and assure that the Chief Justice would need to stay in my good graces to retain his or her position. Knowing the head magistrate of our state's highest court would have to think twice before ruling against me or checking my power is difficult to reject. I also recognize that refusing power is not en vogue these days and may be seen as weakness. But just because I can, doesn't mean I should. And while I appreciate your faith and trust in extending me this new authority, I must respectfully decline.

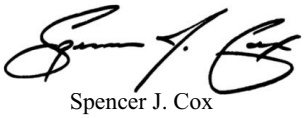
For these reasons, I have decided to veto SB 296. In so doing, I do not mean to imply that the judiciary is infallible or beyond reproach. I am deeply disappointed in some recent decisions that I believe are wrong. I support changes we made last year to the selection committees and the other bills passed this year around constitutional review and standing. Furthermore, I pledge to continue to work to change our laws and even amend the constitution if necessary to protect our state. I remain grateful that a decision by the Supreme Court is not the last word. A vote of two-thirds of the legislature and 50.1% of the public can overturn any decision. But just because I disagree with the court, does not mean that the system is broken or corrupted. Reasonable and intelligent legal minds can and do disagree on these decisions. It is possible to vehemently oppose a ruling and still support the institution. Indeed, I believe as an elected official I have an obligation to make sure that I am not responsible for hastening the decay of trust in our most important institutions. For once lost, that trust is excruciatingly difficult to return.

Much like the tearing down of Chesterton's Fence, while it might feel good now, I believe we would eventually come to regret rejecting ancient wisdom and injecting our own politics into the independent judiciary.

Please note that this decision is mine and mine alone. I know that there were negotiations with the judiciary during the session, and no one from that branch has asked me for this veto. As such, I must conclude by recognizing my own limitations and acknowledging that my veto power is not definitive. If two-thirds of you disagree with me then this law will go into full effect and I have sworn an oath to the constitution of this state and United States and will faithfully execute the law — even those I disagree with.

As we are soon to celebrate the 250th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence and the founding of the greatest nation in the history of the world, I feel profoundly grateful for this intricate, messy, and beautiful form of government that has been gifted to us. I thank God every day for the role you and I get to play in writing the history of our great state. I love, admire, and respect you even — and especially — when we disagree. Thank you again for all you continue to do on behalf of the people of Utah.

Respectfully,



Spencer J. Cox

Mar. 27, 2025

Dear President Adams, Speaker Schultz, and Members of the Legislature,

We made it! Today marks the final day of the constitutional bill review period and the closing chapter of the 2025 General Session. Congratulations on all of your hard work, which I've had the privilege of witnessing firsthand over the course of a 20-day bill review. Thank you for everything you do to serve your constituents and the people of Utah. Utah — and Utahns — are in good hands as we face any challenges the future holds.

Before going any further, I want to offer a sincere thank you to our legislative leadership — President Adams, Speaker Schultz, and the entire leadership team. Your thoughtful approach has helped ensure that even when we disagree, we do so with respect, civility, and a shared commitment to doing what's right for Utah.

Since this is the final letter I will send during this year's bill review period, I want to briefly touch on a few items. First, I'll share some themes that I've noticed over the past weeks, and how they relate to specific bills from the session. I will also touch on a few bills that I am vetoing, and some that I am signing with the understanding that they will be amended in a special session. Finally, I'll explain why I am allowing three bills to pass into law without signature.

The Utah Constitution only provides 20 days after sine die for me to review the bills passed and decide what to sign or veto — a relatively short window given the volume of bills passed this session. As I have mentioned before, there are many bills that I would not have voted for had I been in the Legislature. But, vetoing a bill calls for a higher standard than deciding whether to vote for a bill. This is out of respect for and deference to your diligent efforts to find creative solutions to the challenges facing your constituents.

However, reviewing all the bills in a short period of time gives me the opportunity to spot themes that may not be so easy to identify during the chaos of a 45-day session. Two of those stand out to me: (1) our recent approach to tax policy and (2) the challenges related to criminal justice policy.

In the last five years, we have made historic tax cuts — totaling more than $1.3 billion. I am proud of this work. However, I have come to the conclusion that we need to develop a more coordinated plan for Utah's future tax policy. I want to highlight the great work of Sen. McCay, as the chair of the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee, in his efforts to be thoughtful about tax policy. With the failure of comprehensive tax reform in 2019 and the setbacks in removing the food tax and fixing the earmark, it is time for us to go back to the drawing board and craft a tax policy that will ensure Utah's prosperity for generations to come.

While I appreciate and respect Sen. McCay's diligent and innovative work on tax policy, I have decided to veto S.B. 197, *Property Tax Amendments. A number of our county government leaders expressed concerns and asked for a veto due to administrative challenges with this policy change. They also expressed concerns about the impact this would have on our senior population. I agree with both of those concerns. Many of these issues are outlined in a joint veto request letter from county treasurers across the state (see attached).

While S.B. 197 contains well-intentioned goals of reforming and streamlining property tax relief programs, it risks cutting off the most vulnerable of Utah's expanding senior population from a critical tax relief lifeline, while also adding administrative burdens on counties. A more prudent approach would be to revisit these reforms as part of a comprehensive, coordinated review of Utah's tax system. I am committed to working with Sen. McCay and the legislature to take a more complete approach to our future tax policy — not only on property tax, but also the future of our income tax rate and our state sales tax.

That brings me to a second area of concern: criminal justice policy. There are so many of you that deserve recognition for your outstanding work in this area. Like you, I believe in law and order, and public safety is a top priority for my administration. Those who endanger our community must be held accountable. And we can never thank our law enforcement officials enough for their sacrifice and dedication.

I also recognize that this is a particularly difficult area in which to legislate. Many believe that Utah moved too far in one direction with the justice reinvestment initiative in 2015, a concern that I share to some degree. At the same time, we must be careful as we rebalance our policy to not swing the pendulum too far in the other direction with ad hoc changes that lack a thoughtful, comprehensive operational plan.

I'll share some data to illustrate the issue: this session, there were at least 77 bills introduced that sought to increase criminal penalties or create new criminal offenses. Even after we worked together to rein in this number, 43 of these bills passed in some form. The 2025 session was not an aberration but rather the continuation of a trend, with an average of 40 offenses added or enhanced each year from 2020–2024. This makes for a total of over 200 new crimes or increased penalties over the past six years, adding to the over 2,000 existing misdemeanor and felony offenses already on the books.

Changes at this rate are unsustainable, and I'm concerned about the strain this rapid growth in new offenses places on our incarceration resources. I've heard from many stakeholders — including law enforcement leaders — that the sheer volume of recent changes has become difficult to manage. There is also a valid question as to whether these enhancements, absent an overarching strategy, will actually achieve the public safety goals they're intended to address.

One bill, H.B. 353, *Criminal Code Amendments, tries to buck this trend by having each state agency individually review the criminal code and offer its own suggestions for changes directly to the legislature. I commend the sponsors for their work on this bill and appreciate them identifying the issues I have mentioned above. However, this bill doesn't go far enough, and I worry that an ad-hoc review by each agency will likely serve only to further complicate the situation. We need a more comprehensive approach.

For this reason, I will issue an executive order today to establish a criminal justice task force at the Commission on Criminal and Juvenile Justice. The task force will work directly with you and others to develop a criminal justice framework to aid in making criminal justice policy decisions. It will consider many different factors including public safety, victim needs, deterrence, proportionality, recidivism, and prison and jail capacity. We know that your role as the Legislature is to create policy, and we hope that the efforts of the task force will be helpful to you as you continue the important work you do in this area. Legislative involvement will be essential to the task force's success, and we hope members will actively collaborate with CCJJ in this important work.

As for H.B. 353, out of appreciation and respect for the sponsors and their efforts, I am not vetoing the bill, but am allowing it to go into law without signature — not because I don't like the bill, but because I think we can do even more.

Thank you for letting me reflect on these themes. My reflections are intended to offer perspective, not critique. I am deeply grateful for your willingness to take on the hard issues, and we stand ready to work with you and support you as we continue to find solutions to these difficult problems.

As I mentioned, there are also a few other bills that I have decided to veto. These bills are:

H.B. 306, Precious Metals Amendments. This bill required the state treasurer to hold a competitive procurement process to find a company to operate a precious metals-backed electronic payment system on behalf of the state. The bill would require that the payment system be integrated into the state's accounting system.

While Utah has been implementing last year's H.B. 348, Precious Metals Amendments, under which the state treasurer may invest in precious metals, there are significant problems that make H.B. 306 operationally impracticable. Additionally, I am concerned that a specific entity offered to fund the bill, which could jeopardize the required competitive process in the bill.

H.B. 315, Elected Official Vacancy Modifications. This bill sought to address how to handle a tie among three or more candidates in a vacancy for a municipal office. The bill does so by having municipalities use a "game of chance." In light of the language of the Utah Constitution that the "Legislature shall not authorize any game of chance," I am vetoing the bill out of an abundance of caution to avoid creating potential legal issues for the state in this area. I applaud the efforts of the sponsors to improve the code in this area, and support finding a new approach to accomplish their goal.

S.B. 106, Utah-Ireland Trade Commission. This bill creates a new Utah-Ireland trade commission consisting of six legislators and five individuals appointed by the executive director of the Governor's Office of Economic Opportunity. While I understand the intent of this bill, I continue to be wary of creating new commissions in statute. Thanks to your outstanding work, we are now under 400 boards and commissions in the state. Let's not go backward on this when it is not necessary to do so!

Further, I am concerned about creating a trade commission for one country when we have not established similar commissions for other countries that, by the numbers, are much more significant trade partners for Utah. And, we don't need to create a new commission when I can do everything that this bill calls for without a new statute or a new trade commission. I do these things on behalf of the state of Utah regularly — advancing bilateral trade and investment, initiating joint action on areas of mutual interest, promoting business, and taking other actions to strengthen trade with other countries. These actions are an executive function, not the function of a commission of legislators. Legislators do play an important role in our sub-national relationships with other countries and we are always willing to coordinate and support those efforts.

To be clear to our friends in Ireland, nothing in this veto represents a lack of desire or willingness to enter into a memorandum of understanding or improve our trade with Ireland. I welcome such a relationship, and am happy to pursue this without the cost or administrative burden of a new commission.

There are two bills I have decided to sign, but with the understanding that we will have a special session to make modifications. These are:

H.B. 263, Election Amendments. I support election transparency and appreciate this year's efforts to strengthen trust in our election system. This bill had many veto requests from our county clerks and the Utah Association of Counties. I agree with much of Rep. Thurston's intent with his focus on enhanced election transparency, which is why I'm signing the bill. I am grateful that Rep. Thurston was willing to sit down and work through those concerns with county clerks and elections officials, and that he has reached an agreement on some important changes to the bill. I appreciate legislative leadership's willingness to implement that agreement in a special session.

H.B. 356, County Government Amendments. Again, while I agree with much of the original intent of the bill, I believe the final version of the bill creates some unintended consequences. I have worked with the sponsor and legislative leadership to make arrangements for these changes to avoid the unintended consequences. Again, more to come soon in a special session.

I will also include on a special session call that we should remove a $3.5 million appropriation that had been allocated for the Sundance Film Festival. Let's reappropriate that money to efforts in Utah to create a new festival and a world-class film economy right here in our state.

There are two additional bills that I have decided to allow to become law without my signature:

S.B. 69, Medication Amendments. This bill would require pharmaceutical manufacturers to extend federal 340B discounts to for-profit contract pharmacies. I appreciate the sponsors of this bill for their efforts to make prescription medication more accessible to uninsured and low-income Utahns. I'm also grateful that this bill will be good for Utah hospitals. I have some concerns that the current program does not exactly serve its intended purpose. The bill does not require cost savings to be passed onto patients and is not transparent in how cost savings are used. This program was established by Congress, and it should be fixed at the federal level. As such, I am allowing this bill to go into law without signature.

H.B. 77, Flag Display Amendments. H.B. 77 has been one of the most divisive bills of the session, and I am deeply disappointed that it did not land in a better place. My understanding is that there was a deal on a compromise that would have removed problematic portions of the bill while retaining others that would support political neutrality in the classroom. Sadly the sponsors did not move that deal forward. I continue to have serious concerns with this bill. However, because a veto would be overridden, I have decided to allow the bill to go into law without my signature, and urge lawmakers to consider commonsense solutions that address the bill's numerous flaws.

I deeply believe that our classrooms need to be a place where everyone feels welcome — free from the politics that are fracturing our country. Parents are rightly upset when they bring their kids to publicly funded schools and see culture-war symbols in a place that should be apolitical. In an attempt to make some kids feel more welcome, other kids feel less welcome. I appreciate that the bill is neutral on the types of flags in question (and I find it strange that no headline reads "MAGA flags banned from classrooms"). I agree with the underlying intent of those legislators who supported this bill in an attempt to bring political neutrality to the classroom.

Unfortunately, this bill does not do that. By simply requiring the removal of flags only, there is little preventing countless other displays — posters, signs, drawings, furniture — from entering the classroom. Furthermore, the bill is overly prescriptive on flags themselves. To those legislators who supported this bill, I'm sure it will not fix what you are trying to fix.

Fortunately individual schools can (and many have) put into place their own policies to bring political neutrality to the classroom. Furthermore, we have a better place to make the necessary regulations than the legislature: the Utah State Board of Education (USBE) has provided a framework and expectation of political neutrality in the classroom through the educator code of conduct found in R277-217-2(25). Still, I believe more needs to be done by USBE to provide direction in this regard. I have asked the Board of Education to continue their work to find ways to make our classrooms both more politically neutral and more welcoming to every student to exercise their own individual freedom of expression. The idea that kids can only feel welcome in a school if a teacher puts up a rainbow flag is just wrong. Let's do everything possible to make our classrooms one of the last remaining politically neutral places in our state.

Second, I believe that the bill goes too far when applied to local governments. While I think it's wrong for city and county officials to fly divisive flags, I believe that elections have consequences and the best way to stop that behavior is to elect people who believe differently. All this bill does is add more fuel to the fire, and I suspect it will only ratchet up the creative use of political symbolism (for example: lighting used in place of flags).

Finally, as tired as Utahns are of politically divisive symbols, I think they are also tired of culture war bills that don't solve the problems they intend to fix. Utah has always had a reputation of trying to find a way to work together and solve issues between sides that have strongly-held, opposing points of view. There are so many examples of the LGBTQ community and the conservative community coming together to find helpful and hopeful compromise. I hope we can retain this as our model and North Star.

To our LGBTQ community, I know that recent legislation has been difficult. Politics can be a bit of a blood sport at times and I know we have had our disagreements. I want you to know that I love and appreciate you and I am grateful that you are part of our state. I know these words may ring hollow to many of you, but please know that I mean them sincerely.

I hope that the legislature will remain open to allowing the USBE to go further in ensuring the political neutrality of our classrooms, while also considering repealing the local government piece of this legislation and allowing elected representatives to answer to their own constituents. If you are willing to pursue this kind of solution, you will have an open door in the executive branch.

I am also line-item vetoing a few items of appropriations:

One line item veto for H.B. 3, *Current Fiscal Year Supplemental Appropriations:

- Item 154, lines 2711-2715. This item duplicates the federal funds appropriation adjustment that was also included in Item 11 of H.B. 7, National Guard, Veterans Affairs, and Legislature Base Budget.

The following line-item vetoes for S.B. 3, *Appropriations Adjustments:

- Item 177, lines 1418-1424; Item 201, lines 1738-1744; and Item 209, lines 1793-1799. S.B. 106, Utah-Ireland Trade Commission, was vetoed.
- Item 249, lines 2207-2213. This item of appropriation, H.B. 277, Vehicle Registration Amendments, did not pass.
- Item 261, lines 2308-2316. S.B. 222, Vehicle Emission Inspection Program Revisions, did not pass.
- Item 454, lines 4098-4104. S.B. 37, Minimum Basic Tax Rate Amendments, which would have authorized the deposit of local property tax revenues into the state's General Fund, was vetoed. As a result, the funding that this item transfers from the General Fund into the Income Tax Fund is no longer available.

I'll conclude with one final trend that has troubled me in recent years. During the 2021 General Legislative Session, the Legislature passed 502 bills totaling 9,646 pages. This last Session, 582 bills were passed, increasing that total page count by more than 3,000 pages to 12,703 pages. Since 2021, the legislature has passed 2,762 bills for a total of 56,907 pages. To further illustrate the nature of the concern, there have been 646 education bills passed in the last five years, representing ~23% of all bills passed. While many of these bills greatly benefit our students, parents, and educators, this additional regulation creates a significant burden upon local education agencies and their genuine efforts to be in compliance with the new statutory expectations within short timeframes.

While there are many reasons to explain this increase — such as improved efficiency in the legislative drafting process, additional staff support, and streamlined channels of communication — I am worried about the additional burden this places on the public, state entities, local governments, and others to understand and effectively implement all these new laws. Rather than focusing on serving the people of our state, I am worried they are focusing on implementing another year's worth of legislation. I support your work and I recognize your well-meaning efforts to build a better state for all Utahns. As we look to the 2026 Session, I hope we can work together and make a concerted effort to thoughtfully examine the wide-reaching impact of each bill.

With that, we have concluded the 2025 General Session. Thank you for your work, partnership, sacrifice, and dedication. And thank you for all you do to make Utah the best place to live, work, recreate, and raise a family.

With great respect,

Spencer J. Cox

Utah Code Sections Affected:

AMENDS:

20A-19-103, as enacted by Statewide Initiative -- Proposition 4, Nov. 6, 2018

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the state of Utah:

Section 1. Section 20A-19-103 is amended to read:

20A-19-103. Redistricting standards and requirements.

(1) As used in this section:

(a) "Ensemble analysis" means an analysis of a proposed redistricting plan:

(i) that uses a sequential Monte Carlo simulation to generate an ensemble of at least 4,000 redistricting plans before culling any plan for compliance with this section;

(ii) that indicates whether a proposed redistricting plan shows a partisan intent by comparing the proposed plan to the ensemble by calculating:

(A) the ranked marginal deviation of the ensemble by:

(I) identifying one of the two major political parties as the reference party;

(II) for each map the simulation generates, ranking the districts from worst performance for the reference party to best performance for the reference party, using the partisan index;

(III) at each rank, calculating the average vote share for the reference party;

(IV) for each map the simulation generates, calculating the deviations between the reference party's performance at each rank and the average vote share at that rank;

(V) squaring the deviations described in Subsection (1)(a)(ii)(A)(IV);

(VI) adding together the squared deviations described in Subsection (1)(a)(ii)(A)(V) for each map;

(VII) dividing the sum described in Subsection (1)(a)(ii)(A)(VI) by the number of districts; and

(VIII) taking the square root of the quotient described in Subsection (1)(a)(ii)(A)(VII); and

(B) the ranked marginal deviation of the proposed redistricting plan by:

(I) ranking the districts from worst performance for the reference party to best performance for the reference party, using the partisan index;

(II) calculating the deviations between the reference party's performance at each rank and the average vote share described in Subsection (1)(a)(ii)(A)(IV);

(III) squaring the deviations described in Subsection (1)(a)(ii)(B)(II);

(IV) adding together the squared deviations described in Subsection (1)(a)(ii)(B)(III);

(V) dividing the sum described in Subsection (1)(a)(ii)(B)(IV) by the number of districts; and

(VI) taking the square root of the quotient described in Subsection (1)(a)(ii)(B)(V); and

(iii) for which the following results fail the ensemble analysis:

(A) a result described in Subsection (1)(a)(ii)(B)(VI) that is greater than the result described in Subsection (1)(a)(ii)(A)(VIII) of 95% of the ensemble districts; or

(B) a result described in Subsection (1)(a)(ii)(B)(VI) that is greater than the result described in Subsection (1)(a)(ii)(A)(VIII) of 95% of the ensemble districts after culling the ensemble to include only redistricting plans that pass the partisan bias test, as described in Subsection (1)(c)(ii).

(b) "Mean-median difference test" means an evaluation of a proposed redistricting plan:

(i) that calculates the difference between a party's average statewide vote share and the party's median vote share across all districts in a proposed redistricting plan; and

(ii) for which a difference described in Subsection (1)(b)(i) that is greater than a 2% deviation from the mean fails the mean-median difference test.

(c) "Measures of partisan symmetry" means, for a congressional redistricting plan:

(i) the partisan bias test; and

(ii) an ensemble analysis with subsequent culling to include only redistricting plans that pass the partisan bias test to ensure the plan is within the statistical bounds of passing plans.

(d) "Partisan bias test" means an evaluation of partisan symmetry in a proposed redistricting plan:

(i) that follows the following sequential steps:

(A) calculate each party's statewide vote share using the partisan index;

(B) calculate the difference between each party's statewide vote share and 50%;

(C) subtract the difference described in Subsection (1)(d)(i)(B) from each party's vote share in each district in the proposed redistricting plan based on the partisan index data for each census block within the district; and

(D) based on the adjusted vote share described in Subsection (1)(d)(i)(C), calculate the difference between each party's expected seat share and 50% of the total seats in a hypothetical election, with the difference between the party's seat share in the hypothetical election and 50% of the total seats representing the degree of partisan bias; and

(ii) for which a result described in Subsection (1)(d)(i) other than the following fails the partisan bias test:

(A) for an even number of seats, 0; or

(B) for an odd number of seats, 0.5.

(e) "Partisan index" means an average of the partisan vote share:

(i) except as provided in Subsection (1)(e)(ii), in the three immediately preceding statewide elections for each of the following offices:

(A) United States president;

(B) governor;

(C) attorney general;

(D) state treasurer; and

(E) state auditor;

(ii) except as provided in Subsection (1)(e)(iii), that excludes an election for an office in which the two largest political parties did not field a candidate; and

(iii) that allocates votes for an independent general election candidate to a political party if the independent candidate attempted to win the nomination of the political party at a primary election or party convention for the same general election.

(f) "Sequential Monte Carlo simulation" means a probabilistic algorithm that simultaneously generates a representative ensemble of districting plans for comparison in an ensemble analysis by building redistricting plans through a step-by-step random sampling method, weighting and resampling the plans to reflect legal and geometric criteria.

(g) "Unduly favor or disfavor" in regards to Subsection (4) for purposes of a congressional map, means the map is asymmetrical under the measures of partisan symmetry and fails the mean-median difference test.

~~(1)~~ This [~~Section~~]section establishes redistricting standards and requirements applicable to the Legislature and to the Utah Independent Redistricting Commission.

~~(2)~~ The Legislature and the Commission shall abide by the following redistricting standards to the greatest extent practicable and in the following order of priority:

(a) adhering to the Constitution of the United States and federal laws, such as the Voting Rights Act, 52 U.S.C. Secs. 10101 through 10702, including, to the extent required, achieving equal population among districts using the most recent national decennial enumeration made by the authority of the United States;

(b) minimizing the division of municipalities and counties across multiple districts, giving first priority to minimizing the division of municipalities and second priority to minimizing the division of counties;

(c) creating districts that are geographically compact;

(d) creating districts that are contiguous and that allow for the ease of transportation throughout the district;

(e) preserving traditional neighborhoods and local communities of interest;

(f) following natural and geographic features, boundaries, and barriers; and

(g) maximizing boundary agreement among different types of districts.

~~(3)~~ (a) The Legislature and the Commission may not divide districts in a manner that purposefully or unduly favors or disfavors any incumbent elected official, candidate or prospective candidate for elective office, or any political party.

(b) Absent clear and convincing evidence of purpose, a redistricting plan that is within the acceptable bounds of the ensemble analysis does not purposefully favor or disfavor a political party under Subsection (4)(a).

(c) A redistricting plan that is symmetrical under the measures of partisan symmetry and passes the mean-median difference test does not unduly favor or disfavor a political party under Subsection (4)(a).

~~(4)~~ The Legislature and the Commission shall use judicial standards and the best available data and scientific and statistical methods, including measures of partisan symmetry, to assess whether a proposed redistricting plan abides by and conforms to the redistricting standards contained in this [~~Section~~]section, including the restrictions contained in Subsection ~~(3)~~.

~~(5)~~ Partisan political data and information, such as partisan election results, voting records, political party affiliation information, and residential addresses of incumbent elected officials and candidates or prospective candidates for elective office, may not be considered by the Legislature or by the Commission, except as permitted under Subsection ~~(4)~~.

~~(6)~~ The Legislature and the Commission shall make computer software and information and data concerning proposed redistricting plans reasonably available to the public so that the public has a meaningful opportunity to review redistricting plans and to conduct the assessments described in Subsection ~~(4)~~.

(8) Any judicial review of a congressional redistricting plan to determine whether the Legislature or Commission complies with this section regarding purposefully or unduly favoring or disfavoring a political party shall base the review on the outcomes of the following, in accordance with this section:

(a) an ensemble analysis;

(b) the partisan bias test; and

(c) the mean-median difference test.

Section 2. Effective Date.

This bill takes effect:

(1) except as provided in Subsection (2), December 6, 2025; or

(2) if approved by two-thirds of all members elected to each house:

(a) upon approval by the governor;

(b) without the governor's signature, the day following the constitutional time limit of Utah Constitution, Article VII, Section 8; or

(c) in the case of a veto, the date of veto override.
