America’s Legislators Back to School Week is designed to teach young people—the nation’s future voters and leaders—what it’s like to serve as an elected official: the processes, pressures, debate, negotiation, and compromise that are the very fabric of representative democracy. Utah’s legislators visited schools last month and led students in mock sessions, simulated committee hearings, held question and answer sessions, and taught bill drafting to bring civics to life in the classroom.

Legislators participating in this vital civic education program exemplified the spirit of public service showing a 77% increase from last year in schools, classrooms, and students visited.

America’s Legislators Back to School Week
Another Successful Year in Utah

Legislators were very successful in building public trust and confidence in state government—as demonstrated by a class of 3rd graders who enthusiastically gave hugs to their senator.

Five newspapers and two TV channels covered the event following legislators into the classroom. One representative visited 11 schools in her legislative district and said she had a blast facilitating mock sessions in EACH of the 55 classrooms she visited. Several legislators visited all of the schools within their legislative districts.

School Visits: 160
Classroom Visits: 530
Students Visited: 15,900
