How the Guard and Reserve are Different

Status

Leadership & command relationships

Force structure

History & culture

Army National Guard

- Serves in either Federal or State status
- No Posse Comitatus restrictions when in State status
- Most experienced DoD element at disaster response

- State-based; commanded by Governors for emergency response, or President for federal missions
- National Guard Bureau provides policy and resources to the 54 States, Territories, & D.C
- CNGB a member of JCS

- Balanced with combat, combat support, & combat service support
- Mobilizes as units

- Dates to organization of first militia regiments in 1636
- State affiliation remains a strong part of Guard culture

Army Reserve

- Serves only in a Federal status
- Posse Comitatus applies
- May provide support to States if requested by governors and approved by SecDef

- Army Reserve Chief also serves as the Commanding General of US Army Reserve Command
- Subordinate command of US Army Forces Command, providing unified command over Army Reserve units and Soldiers at all times

- Principally combat support, combat service support & echelons above Division capabilities
- Mobilizes as units & individual Soldiers

- Dates to first federal reserve of Army established in 1908

Dual Mission

■ FEDERAL:

- Support the overseas warfight, provide homeland defense, and execute other missions as directed by the president.

■ STATE:

- Respond to 'all-hazard' emergencies or disaster events within Utah or other states and territories, as directed by the governor.
