

In the "Convention of States" booklet published in 2018 and available on their website, "Article V Convention of States Citizen's Pocket Guide, The Founders' Constitutional Emergency Plan for 'We the People' to Save America from Federal Government Tyranny" COS lists an eye-opening number of limitless "possible Amendments to consider at an Article V Constitutional Convention of the Convention of States. There may be many things in their booklet that you would like to see as law, but should they be amendments to the constitution? If all of these amendments from the conservatives could be passed at the Article V Convention, how many amendments proposed by liberals and libertarians would be passed? This is not just a convention of conservatives, this is a convention of all 50 states, republicans, democrats, liberals, moderates, conservatives, libertarians, etc

On pages 33 and 34 we read:

"Possible Amendments to Consider at a Convention of States"

"At an Article V Convention of States, delegates will have the opportunity to debate and pass amendments that could:

- * Require Members of Congress to live under the same laws they pass for us.
- * Impose term limits on Members of Congress.
- * Pass a federal balanced budget amendment.
- * Require a photo ID to vote.
- * Get the federal government out of our healthcare system.
- * Get the federal government out of our education system.
- * Stop unelected federal bureaucrats from imposing regulations.
- * Set term limits for Supreme Court Justices.
- * Set term limits for federal bureaucrats, ending the dominance of the "deep state."
- * Remove the authority of the federal government over state energy policy.
- * Remove the authority of the federal government over land use issues within state borders.
- * Force the federal government to honor its commitment to return federal lands to the states.
- * At this convention, delegates from the states will gather for the sole purpose of limiting the power, size, and spending of the federal government, and impose term limits on its officials and members of Congress." <https://conventionofstates.com/campaigns/pgsupporters>

Notice the broad range of subjects... from election law to energy policy, from education to healthcare. Is there an issue you can think of that doesn't fit under COS's enormous umbrella resolution? Is there a pet amendment you would like to propose? Or perhaps that the Delegates
