State funds were initially provided to support professional art education school programs during the 1969 legislative session. Since that time, POPS has steadily grown as new professional arts organizations have built statewide programs to support Utah's schools.

FY19 State
Appropriation:
$4,760,000

FY19 Collective match from the private sector:
$7,078,699

POPS Providers consistently exceed the required 1:1 match of state funds with private funds.

2019 Fall Services:
5,078 Students
171 Teachers
39 Schools
15 School Districts

NEHMA's Mobile Art Truck offers students in rural parts of Utah the chance to have a museum gallery experience in their own community. Exploring Art Kits can also be mailed anywhere in the state. As part of Utah State University, NEHMA is committed to making arts education accessible across the state.

2019 Fall Services:
10,981 Students
725 Teachers
51 Schools
26 School Districts

The Free Elementary School Tour is to authentically connect what students see onstage with what they envision themselves creating as artists, expecting as patrons, and supporting as citizens. Diversity and inclusion are the basis for In the Classroom, through which we provide instruction on the craft and process of playwriting.

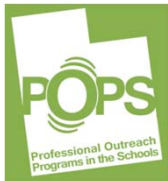

2019 Fall Services:
4,582 Students
775 Teachers
25 Schools
9 School Districts

UMOCA's Art Truck is a mobile museum. Students K-12 are able to explore a contemporary art installation and take part in an art-making project. We believe that the art of our time is vital, and through education programs that encourage participation in the creative process, we can open minds and help build a better world.

"I loved to see how good I could get if I practiced."
--Elementary Student, Provo School District

"Our students were absolutely riveted to the performers. I think there is a lot of high need and curiosity for students to learn about their body movement and emotion that is observed through dance. Not only was the performance engaging and interactive for students, but it was also designed to be effective, instructionally." -- Principal, Elementary School, Cache District
