2018 data from the Utah Department of Health

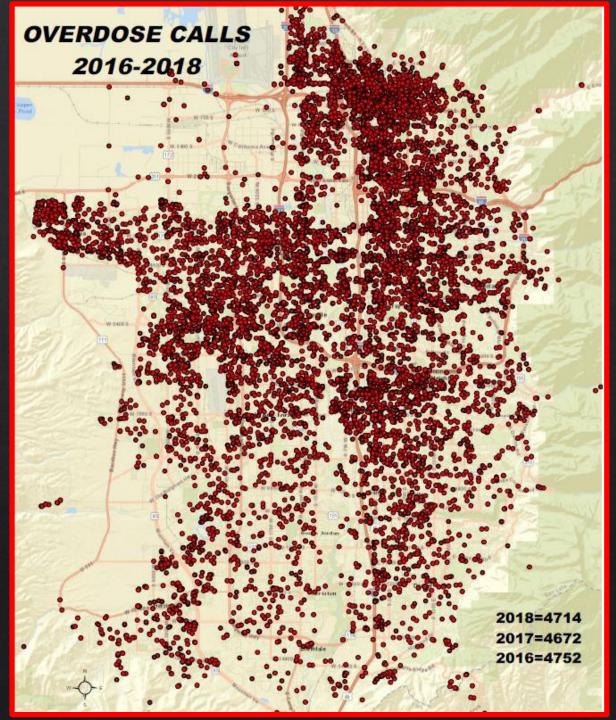

According to the Utah Department of Health's 2018 data....

 We approximate 8 overdose deaths a week. 5 of them are opioid related, meaning 62% of drug overdose death are opioid induced.

In the past 3 years over 14,138 Utahans have overdosed on drugs and not died in the Greater Salt Lake area alone.

While we have seen reductions in drug overdose death, we are still in phase 1 of the epidemic. We are reacting to the problem opposed to preventing it in the first place.

We need both reactive responses to the opioid epidemic but we also need upstream interventions in Utah. We need to see the following:

- Everyone's perceived risk of substance misuse is high
- More people have equal opportunity to affordable healthcare services, particularly mental health and addiction services
- Utahans are healthy as a whole
- We need committees who are searching for INNOVATIVE action items and solutions to these problems. This means even better relationships between government, law enforcement, treatment providers, nonprofit, the workplace, faith based institutions, stakeholder engagement and youth based organizations.

• We have to modernize our outreach efforts to ensure they applicable to Utahans.
