Vote YES on HB193 Full-Day Kindergarten

- For every $1 spent on early interventions for young children, we can save up to $12 in future public spending.
- Full-day kindergarten (FDK) is a time-tested, evidence-based early learning practice that can give children from all backgrounds a strong and equitable start in school.
- Utah students make 2x to 4x the progress their half-day peers make.
- The national average for FDK participation is 82%. Less than one-third (30%) of Utah kindergartners currently participate in FDK.

Utah's low FDK participation rate is due to limited and inequitable access. Most schools are only able to offer FDK to the most at-risk students, leaving out 1000s of kids who could benefit.

FIVE REASONS WHY

- 1. Kids in FDK make amazing learning gains.*
- 2. FDK better prepares students for first grade.*
- 3. FDK is an important early learning investment that saves time and money down the road.*
- 4. FDK provides families with a full day of high-quality learning in a safe environment.*
- 5. All children deserve the chance to make a full year of progress in kindergarten!*
