1:20 2. Government Response to Public Health Emergencies

Background

The committee will receive a presentation on strategies that state policymakers could consider to ensure that federal, state, and local government officials retain a role in planning for and responding to public health emergencies.

Potential questions for consideration include:

- What mechanisms are currently in place to promote government transparency during public health emergencies (public health orders of constraint and restriction, approved treatments, off-label treatments, public health response protocols, etc.)?
- How can local, state, and federal government systems more effectively balance public health recommendations against the right of an individual to make decisions with their doctor, or healthcare practitioner, based on personal beliefs, conscience, or medical priorities?

- What are the rights or responsibilities of local and state government officials and public health officials to question public health decisions and directives made by federal or global health officials (World Health Organization, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, etc.)?
- What actions should the state legislature take right now to ensure that national or world organizations do not usurp state sovereignty either now or in the event of a potential public health emergency?

Presenters

- Aaron Siri, Managing Partner, Siri & Glimstad LLP
