Legislative Membership | 2025

The Federalism Commission is chaired by Sen. Ronald M. Winterton and Rep. Ken Ivory and comprises 14 legislators, including nine Representatives and five Senators. The commission is also authorized to appoint non-voting members to the commission membership. Non-voting members do not count towards a quorum or are included on votes taken by the commission. A quorum of the commission is at least 50% of the legislative commission members.

Federalism Commission Composition

Non-legislator Membership | 2025

The commission received authorization to add non-voting members to the commission membership during the 2024 General Session. There are no specific requirements or qualifications for non-voting members of the commission, only that any proposed non-voting member show an interest in being part of the work that the commission does to evaluate federal actions, be willing to attend meetings in-person or remotely, and have experience or interest in areas that the commission may study so that the non-voting member adds value to the discussion.
