Local Government UCA 36-12-13(2)(c)

To the extent that political subdivisions choose to bond for payment of legal claims, judgements, or settlements as authorized by this bill, those political subdivisions would incur issuance and interest costs associated with the debt. To the extent that political subdivisions choose to raise property taxes to cover payment of legal claims, judgements, or settlements, those political subdivisions would receive additional revenue.

Individuals & Businesses

UCA 36-12-13(2)(d)

To the extent that political subdivisions choose to bond for payment of legal claims, judgements, or settlements and choose to raise property taxes for debt service on that indebtedness as authorized by this bill, taxpayers within the political subdivisions would incur additional tax payments. To the extent that political subdivisions choose to raise property taxes to cover payment of legal claims, judgements, or settlements, taxpayers would incur additional tax payments.

No performance note required for this bill

Notes on Notes

Fiscal notes estimate the direct costs or revenues of enacting a bill. The Legislature uses them to balance the budget. They do not measure a bill's benefits or non-fiscal impacts like opportunity costs, wait times, or inconvenience. A fiscal note is not an appropriation. The Legislature decides appropriations separately.
