Local Government

UCA 36-12-13(2)(c)

Enactment of this legislation could result in foregone penalties and interest revenue for local governments from properties newly granted a property tax deferral. Additionally, this legislation could result in a timing shift of property tax collections from properties newly granted a property tax deferral for tax years 2023 or 2024, and could also result in additional property tax refunds being paid for tax year 2023. It is unknown how many new deferrals or refunds may be granted; the aggregate impact is unknown.

Individuals & Businesses

UCA 36-12-13(2)(c)

Enactment of this legislation could result in reduced penalties and interest expenses for businesses or individuals that own properties which may newly qualify for a property tax deferral. Additionally, this legislation could result in a timing shift of property tax payments from such individuals or businesses newly granted a property tax deferral which could spread the payment equally over a five year period; this could also result in additional property tax refunds being paid to such individuals for tax year 2023. It is unknown how many new deferrals or refunds may be granted; the aggregate impact is unknown.

Regulatory Impact

UCA 36-12-13(2)(d)

Enactment of this legislation likely will not change the regulatory burden for Utah residents or businesses.

Performance Evaluation

JR1-4-601

This bill does not create a new program or significantly expand an existing program.

Notes on Notes

Fiscal notes estimate the direct costs or revenues of enacting a bill. The Legislature uses them to balance the budget. They do not measure a bill's benefits or non-fiscal impacts like opportunity costs, wait times, or inconvenience. A fiscal note is not an appropriation. The Legislature decides appropriations separately.
