Legislative Review Note
 as of 2-3-04 3:45 PM

This bill allocates certain state sales and use tax revenues to counties, cities, and towns to prevent revenue losses to those counties, cities, and towns. The revenue losses are as a result of changes in the amount of local sales and use taxes a seller may retain if that seller is required to remit sales and use taxes to the state on a monthly basis. The bill does not provide the purposes for which the counties, cities, and towns may use the allocated revenues. Utah Constitution Article XIII, Section 5, Utah's "vertical revenue sharing" provision, provides that "the Legislature may not impose a tax for the purpose of a political subdivision of the State, but may by statute authorize political subdivisions of the State to assess and collect taxes for their own purposes." There is no Utah case holding that this constitutional provision prohibits the Legislature from allocating state revenues to local governments. However, there is some authority indicating that such an allocation may constitute impermissible vertical revenue sharing if the revenues are used for a purely local purpose. A court could find that this allocation to counties, cities, and towns constitutes impermissible vertical revenue sharing if the court determines that because the bill does not provide the purposes for which the allocated revenues may be expended, those revenues may be expended for purely local purposes. However, a court could uphold the constitutionality of the allocation as having a state purpose by finding that the state has an interest in simplifying state and local sales and use taxes and this allocation prevents a resulting revenue loss to local governments.

AMENDED BILL

State Impact

Passage of this bill as amended could result in a shift in local revenues between impacted entities. There should be no state impact. Passage of the bill would hold future revenues resulting from streamlined sales taxes and interest earnings in a restricted account until appropriated by the Legislature. This bill has a Legislative Review Note. There may be additional costs to the State if there is a challenge in the courts.
