28 WHEREAS, within the Uintah Basin of the state of Utah, there is an abundance of

30 WHEREAS, geological estimates put the potential of this resource on equal footing
31 with the largest oil developments in the United States;

32 WHEREAS, on average, the United States imports from foreign sources more than half
33 of all oil sold in America;

34 WHEREAS, a significant amount of imported oil comes from countries and regions
35 hostile to the interests of the United States;

36 WHEREAS, conservative estimates indicate that there is more recoverable oil on 37 federal lands in the United States than in Saudi Arabia, a major source of imported oil;

39 lands;

40 WHEREAS, the Ute Indian Tribes receive significant compensation from oil
41 production on tribal lands;

50 WHEREAS, the major producers of oil in the Uintah Basin are actively pursuing 51 opportunities to increase production;

52 WHEREAS, because of the molecular nature of the wax crude in the Uintah Basin, the 53 refineries in North Salt Lake are currently the only viable market for producers of the wax
54 crude;

55 WHEREAS, an oil upgrading facility could change the molecular structure of the wax
56 crude to liquefy it and allow the wax to be delivered to market via pipeline;

57 WHEREAS, an oil upgrading facility in the Uintah Basin would allow for increased
58 production of the wax crude in the Uintah Basin, to the benefit of all Utahns; and

59 WHEREAS, private companies are willing and anxious to build an oil upgrading
60 facility on private land in the Uintah Basin:

61 NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Legislature of the state of Utah, the
