Special Clauses:

None

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the state of Utah:

WHEREAS, in all states east of the state of Colorado, the federal government controls 4% of the land;

WHEREAS, the federal government still controls nearly 50% of the land in the states of

26 Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah,
27 Washington, and Wyoming;

28 WHEREAS, the federal government still controls 66.5% of Utah's 54.3 million acres of 29 land;

30 WHEREAS, the scarcity of state and private land in Utah severely constrains the size
31 and diversity of the state's economy and educational opportunities, including options for 32 funding education;

33 WHEREAS, in 2012 the Legislature passed H.B. 148, Transfer of Public Lands Act and 34 Related Study, which seeks the transfer to the state of Utah the title of ordinary public lands in 35 the state currently managed by the federal government;

36 WHEREAS, in Section 63L-6-102, the Transfer of Public Lands Act defines ordinary 37 "public lands" to exclude certain federally controlled lands, such as national parks, national 38 monuments, national historic sites, and federal wilderness areas, as well as tribal lands;

39 WHEREAS, the movement to assert control and ownership over public lands within the 40 state's borders is, therefore, focused on ordinary public lands;

41 WHEREAS, a team of nationally renowned constitutional scholars and legal experts
42 completed an extensive legal analysis in 2015, concluding that federal retention of ordinary 43 public lands in Utah would have been rejected by the Founders, and should be rejected by the 44 United States Supreme Court, as "unfair and unacceptable";

45 WHEREAS, the legal analysis concluded that "Utah has been treated as decidedly less 46 than an equal sovereign, a result ... the Constitution does not allow";

47 WHEREAS, in the event that these federally controlled lands are transferred to the state
48 of Utah, the state would be the recipient of any revenue generated from the lands;

49 WHEREAS, public education is a critical component of Utah's prosperity, and state
50 revenue invested in public schools is an investment in Utah's children and future economic 51 success; and

52 WHEREAS, the state of Utah is experiencing a growing shortage of credentialed
53 educators while the population of students in the public education system continues to grow:

54 NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that 50% of any new, recurring net revenue
55 derived from the management of transferred public lands shall be deposited into a new fund
56 and disbursed for the purpose of increasing public primary and secondary educator salaries.

57 BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the revenue described above continue to be 58 deposited into the fund and disbursed until educators' starting salaries have increased by a
59 minimum of 25% from the average starting salary in the year in which the state receives control
60 of at least 50% of the ordinary public lands in the state.
